Antique and Hobby Show Opens Tuesday

Country Kitchen Cook Book Offered as Special Feature

by VERA FOLKMAN

Lovers of antiques and hobby fanciers will be in the realm of their dreams at the ninth annual Antique and Hobby show to be held at the Methodist church, Arlington Heights, September 9-11.

Each year the show has been held additional features have been added, making it possible for patrons to return year after year and see something new and different each time. The event, under the sponsorship of the Woman's Society of Christian Service, will be open during the three days from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Mrs. Robert J Marsh, chairman, announced that this year's theme will be the Country Kitchen. A complete setting of antique furniture, dishes and utensils have been collected to make the scene authentic. Mrs. Donald Thompson is in charge of the kitchen, which will be found on the stage in the gym.

Show co-chairman, Mrs. Richard Bronwell, said that the Country Kitchen Cook Book will be a special highlight. Favorite recipes, tested through the years, have been compiled and bound in an attractive book, which every housewife and new bride will want to have in her kitchen. Country Kitchen Honey, supplied by Meineke's Honey Farm, Higgins rd., Arlington Heights, will also be featured. Mrs. Arden Scott is in charge of promotion of these two special items.

"ANTIQUE SHOPS" will be found in the transformed church parlors, where antique dealers from the surrounding countryside will display their wares. Some of their finest pieces, including collector's items, will be offered for sale. Mrs. H. J. Gregg and Mrs. John Kent are co-chairmen of this section.

Since the Methodist church is not large enough to accommodate all the phases of the show "Grandmother's Memories" will be found at nearby St. John Evangelical and Reformed church. Mrs. Walter Sundling, chairman, announced that this would consist of table settings, each one depicting an event of long ago. An heirloom quilt display, under the direction of Mrs. Stanley Myers, will form the background.

Hobbies this year will be more unusual than ever, exhibitors coming from all sections of the Chicago area, as well as Arlington Heights. Many owners will be present at their displays to explain and demonstrate them. To mention a few, Miss Ann Poma, Chicago, will make cluny lace; Joseph Horcher, Arlington Heights, will show his heredity project of mice; and Mrs. Edward House, Lincolnwood, will display original ceramics.

Other hobbies include a collection of Apple Dolls, owned by Mrs. C. H. Mills, Arlington Heights, and European treasures brought back to this country by Mrs. Clarence Hendrickson, Arlington Heights. The Arlington Heights Camera club will exhibit some outstanding photographs and Mrs. Bruce A. Mackey of the Melody Road Herb Gardens, Libertyville, will show how her hobby developed into a business. Mrs. William D. Jones is chairman of hobbies.

HOUSEWIVES need not worry about meals for the family if they want to spend a day at the show. They can tell the youngsters to drop in between 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. to have luncheon with them in the "Calico" room in the gym. In the evening the kiddies can pick up "Pop" and bring him over for dinner, which will be served between 5:30 and 7:30 p.m. Tea will also be served each afternoon, between 2:20 and 4 o'clock in the "Garden Spot" at St. John church.

Mrs. Harold E. Olson, chairman of the food committee, promises tasteful meals will be served each day in the Calico dining room, which is in charge of Mrs. C. M. Crane. The Garden Spot is in charge of Mrs. John Boehner.

During the luncheon hours an old fashioned gramophone will play tunes of yesteryear, and other entertainment of the gay ninety period will be presented.

Admission is 50 cents and the ticket may be used for all three days of the show. Mrs. Robert H. Barbour is president of WSCS and Rev. Birger Dahl is pastor of the church.

Permit Given for New Arlington Post Office

Inspector Barlow of the postal department appeared before the Arlington Heights village board Tuesday evening and upon his representation a building permit was released to the contractor who will erect the new post office building on Campbell st. The construction will start at once.

Barlow told the board the post office department said the building was ample in size for 11½ months of the year. "Everybody expects postal quarters to be crowded at Christmas time," explained the inspector.

The new office will provide a lobby and working quarters 50% greater than is available in the present building. Uncle Sam is not concerned with the provision of car parking space for postal employees. The area at the rear of the new building will be big enough to accommodate the mail trucks.

The owner of the property, who was present, stated that he would not oppose a widening program for Campbell st. Members of the village board expressed their intention to start such a project if a majority of the property owners were ready to cooperate. All except one resident lot is now classed as business property.

NECK OF INFANT BROKEN IN FALL FROM BED

Dennis, 5 months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis C. Holland who reside at the Arlington airport, died instantly Saturday morning when he fell from a bed. He was sleeping with an older child over which he had evidently crawled.

Accidental death was the verdict of the jury. Funeral services were held Tuesday with interment in Ohio.

Getting in the mood for the ninth annual Antique and Hobby show to be held at the Arlington Heights Methodist church, September 9-11, are chairmen working on the show. They are pictured in front of the church with a 1913 Ford belonging to Mrs. Ray Melander, Des Plaines. Chairman, Mrs. Robert J. Marsh (behind wheel) and co-chairman, Mrs. Richard L. Bronwell (left front seat), are in charge of the event sponsored by the Women's Society of Christian Service. Others are, left to right: Rear seat— Mrs. John Boehner, Mrs. Donald Thompson and Suzanne Bauer. First row, standing—Mrs. Burton Bauer, Mrs. C. M. Crane, Mrs. Stanley Myers, Mrs. William Jones. Morton Grove Sheriff's police answered 105 calls during the Labor day week end, but there were no fatalities in the northwest area. However there were many auto accidents and a few injuries, the victims of which were taken to hospitals.

The weather on Labor day cut down accidents for the last 24 hours to a trickle.

Southside Basements Flooded Despite New Rockwell Sewer

Village officials were "flooded" with calls from home owners in Arlington Heights whose basements became flooded during the heavy downpour Monday. Homes, which before remained dry during storms, were ankle deep in water when sewers backed up over the entire southside area between Campbell and Rockwell st., bounded on the east and west by State rd. and Mitchell ave.

The new Rockwell st. sewer extension, which runs from State rd., west to Mitchell ave., was recently completed and it was the opinion this would relieve flooded conditions which existed before its erection. Instead an average of four out of fives homes in the area became new targets.

Trustees questioned the engineer in charge of the Rockwell sewer extension as to the cause at Tuesday night's village board meeting. He had no answer, but promised to check the sewer from start to finish Wednesday to see if it was properly connected and to try and find a solution to the problem.

STORES AND HOMES along the newly widened S. Dunton ave. were partially flooded as a result of the storm. None of these places had been affected in the past. The sewer work along this street will also be checked.

Owners of property along S. Dunton ave., between Davis and Sigwalt, who have steps extending onto the sidewalk beyond their property line, will be asked to remove those steps. The village, as well as the owners, could be held liable if any pedestrian were injured by tripping or falling over the steps.

The annual tax levy ordinance was passed by the trustees, who also passed an ordinance changing the dates of their regular board meetings to the first and third Tuesday of each month. Heretofore they held meetings the first and third Mondays.

THE VILLAGE appropriated $500 for a civil defense expense fund. This money will be drawn as needed to pay expenses of key men being trained for the civil defense program in Arlington Heights, which is in charge of N. M. Lattof.

Purchase of two new snow plows, which can be attached to the two new trucks recently bought by the village, is being considered. Trustee William Luehring and Supt. of Streets Raymond Becker will look over several plows and bring their recommendations to the board.

A motion made by Trustee Edward Carlisle to grant $300 expenses to Chief of Police Carl H. Skoog to attend the annual convention of International Police Chiefs in California this month, was not carried. Trustees Carlisle, Ralph Hoffie, and David Zimmerman voted in favor, Trustee Walter Karstens voted no, and Trustee William Luehring passed his vote. Trustee Harry Robinson was absent, and Mayor Albert W. Goedke was then able to vote on the proposition as it stood. He cast a no vote.

Policeman Harry Bending Jr. of Des Plaines, who was shot to death by one of three bandits robbing finance company office in the suburb

Adult Evening School Offers Season Tickets to Village Theatre Plays

For the first time this year a bonus will be offered to all persons registered in the adult evening program at Arlington Heights high school. Anyone who enrolls in an adult evening class will have an opportunity to buy a season ticket for all three of the Arlington Heights Village Theatre productions.

SEASON TICKETS will sell for $1.50, and will admit the buyer to two full-length plays and a one-act play for children. Tickets for the children's play only will be transferable. Those not enrolled in the adult evening program may purchase single tickets at time of production at regular prices.

The Village Theatre has announced the following slate of plays for the 1952-53 season:

"George Washington Slept Here" will be presented November 7 and 8, at 8:30 p.m., at the South school auditorium. This play will be sponsored by the PTA.

February 8, 1953, a special children's matinee will be given. This annual children's play has long been one of the most popular features of the Village Theatre program. The matinee will be presented at the high school in two performances, 2 and 4 p.m., and tickets for this one event will be transferable for season ticket holders.

CLIMAX OF the season will be the hilarious Kaufman and Hart comedy, "The Man Who Came To Dinner," which will be given on the high school stage April 17 and 18, 1953.

Members of the Village Theatre will be present at the high school at the time of registration for the adult program, Sept. 22, 23, and 24, to answer inquiries, and to sell season tickets.

Too Bad Their Toes Weren't Under It

A 600-pound safe was found in undisturbed rest in the center of Oakwood ave., Des Plaines, recently.

Police quickly checked the office of Suburban Dairy, 1309 Oakwood.

They said burglars apparently entered the office by smashing the front door lock with a sledge hammer.

The thieves probably loaded the safe onto a truck with a block and tackle, then slipped away unnoticed. The safe apparently escaped the burglars the same way. Police believe it possibly fell off the getaway truck.

Malcolm, O. Ford. Standing are: F. Davis, R. Black, R. Geddes, N. Lattof. The two "gals" in the picture were not the ones who entertained the boys at the night club.

ENGINEERS PROMISE FINAL REPORT MONDAY

New Public Grade Pupils Must Register Now

Superintendent Ralph E. Clabaugh has urged all parents of children who are new to the Arlington Heights public elementary school system to register their children this week.

This may be done by reporting to their school's office, except that Dryden Place registrations will be handled in the South school gymnasium. However, the Dryden Place school will be ready for occupancy by teachers and children next week.

IT IS PREFERRED that registration be done during the morning, but, if necessary, it can be taken care of in the afternoon. It is particularly important that parents of kindergarten, first, and second grade children register them this week, as the first four days of next week in the case of kindergarten pupils and the first two days in first and second grades will be used for a scheduled conference between the teacher and parent. There will be no classes for those grades on those days, but it is essential that the children be enrolled in advance so that the conference can be scheduled.

In the Junior high school, the morning of September 8 will be devoted to the sixth graders and the afternoon to the seventh and eighth graders. Children enrolled as new students and all children enrolled last year have been informed of these details by letter.

Third, fourth, and fifth grade children have also been mailed their school's handbook containing necessary advance information if they were previously enrolled or if they have registered as new pupils.

THE SCHOOLS have made every effort to plan the opening of school so that children enter with a minimum of confusion and so that instruction can start immediately. Members of the teaching staff reported September 2 and are taking part in a four-day planning conference which ends Friday.

The school year will close officially June 9, with the last class sessions to be held June 5.

The Honorable Marguerite Stitt Church, representative of the thirteenth congressional district of Illinois, has already accepted an invitation to attend this meeting and will present an informative address.

Release Anxiously Awaited by Plan Commission, Businessmen

Willard Walters advised Arlington Heights village board Tuesday night that he had been promised the final Stanton and Rockwell report within a few days.

The engineers employed to prepare a long range improvement plan have inquired as to the number of the bound copies desired. Walters told the board he had found many persons are vitally interested in the recommendations the engineers are making. He suggested it might be advisable to purchase additional copies.

In order that there shall be no duplication of effort, the newly selected committee of business men appointed to push shopper parking plans, chairman Dan Senne informed Paddock Publications Tuesday that his committee will not take any definite steps until after the Stanton and Rockwell report is received.

With the post office location settled, the widening of W. Campbell st. has been pushed to the front and must also be taken into consideration.

Mayor Goedke, again this week, stated the village board is ready to act as soon as business interests agree on what phase of the plan should be first attempted.

Attorney Walters said Tuesday night, "I know nothing more about the final recommendations of the engineers than does the general public, but I am certain the engineers arrived at their decisions independent of outside influences."

Victims Recovering From Mild Polio Cases

Mrs. Robert B. Bradle, 534 S. Chestnut, Arlington Heights, contracted polio last week, but has a mild case and is being treated at home. She is slowly recovering and is able to be up part of the time. The only paralysis occurred in the lips.

Raymond Hickman, who was reported to have a suspected case of polio last week, is also recovering and expects to be released from the hospital within the next few days. He suffered a slight paralysis, which has now cleared up.

No other new cases have been reported in this area.

Over $8,000 Already Pledged To Family of Slain Policeman

Many citizens pledged financial aid to the family of the Des Plaines policeman slain last week.

Five bandits, one a killer, are now in custody less than one week after they staged a $157 holdup at the Times Finance company, Des Plaines, and shot and killed Police Officer Harry W. Bending Jr., 30.

The robbery took place August 28. Officer Bending was shot in the head and shoulder as he attempted to enter the finance office after receiving a radio alarm that there were suspicious men in the office. He was able to fire one shot, which struck the ceiling, before he fell mortally wounded.

Confessed killer is Richard Green, 26, of 3242 Overhill ave., Chicago. Others apprehended are: John McCann, 21, 4723 Sheridan rd.; Dennis Gessner, 22, of 4031 Kenmore ave.; Jerry Wiott, 24, of 9836 Linn ave., Norwood Park township and Elton Meyer, 25. The latter was captured in Cedar Rapids, Ia., and returned to Chicago Tuesday.

First clue as to the identity of the bandits was found shortly after the robbery when one of two 1950 Mercury sedans they used on the "job" was found abandoned in Des Plaines, about two miles from the scene of the crime. In the trunk they found bits of rubbish and scraps of paper, which, when pieced together by Sheriff John Babb and Chief Patrick Tuohy, formed a police summons for a parking violation.

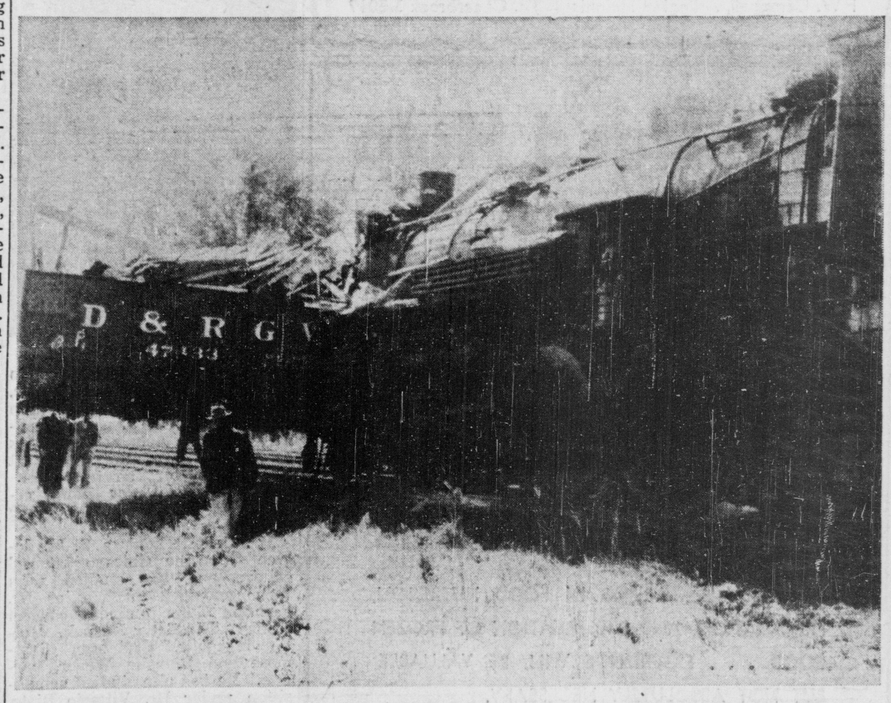
The ticket had been issued for a motorcycle owned by Gessner, with the address given as Box 384, Norwood Park township. Sgt. Robert Small of the sheriff's police traced this box number to Wiott's address. Police picked up Wiott when he returned home and information gained from his arrest led to the apprehension of the others.

Wiott told police that he and Gessner went to the Time Finance office to try and arrange a loan to purchase a motorcycle. Instead they looked the place over and decided it would be suitable for a robbery.

Funeral services for Bending, who is survived by his wife, Florence, and eight-year-old son, Leonard, were held Sunday, and were attended by more than 600 citizens and friends. He is also survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bending Sr., and his three older brothers, Henry, Edward and Kenneth, all of Des Plaines.

J. R. Lawrence, president of the First National Bank of Des Plaines, who heads a committee of five in charge of a fund to aid the widow and son, reported that $8,000 in cash pledges have been received. Mrs. Bending and her son will receive $2,300 a year as well as $3,000 from the Des Plaines police association and $250 from the Illinois Police association.

Prospect Meadows community, northwest of Mount Prospect, has contributed $103.60 to the trust fund. Members of the community association asked Sgt. Kranz of Mount Prospect to turn the amount collected over to the Des Plaines bank.



A lucky train wreck occurred at 10:30 Wednesday morning at the cross-over of the North Western and the Soo Line west of Des Plaines. "It couldn't happen, but it did," say railroad men. The accident occurred when a Soo Line freight train backed across the North Western tracks in front of a Janesville passenger train from the north. The engineer of the latter train was able to slow down sufficient to keep all of the passenger train upon the track and demolishing only one freight car, loaded with lumber, which was pushed 500 feet. The adjacent tank cars, fortunately, only contained asphalt and not gasoline.

The only person injured was the engineer, who suffered a broken arm as part of the engine cab was sheared off. The delay to Chicago bound passengers was short, but northbound passengers of other trains were transferred to buses until the arrival of the railroad wrecker, which soon had the three tracks open to traffic.

Kiwanis to Hold Kids' Day September 27

National Kids' Day will be celebrated September 27 in Arlington Heights and hundreds of other communities throughout the United States, Canada, Alaska and Hawaii.

Al Lindemann, president of the Kiwanis club, said the annual observance is sponsored by Kiwanis International and The National Kids' Day Foundation, Inc., North Hollywood, Calif. Thousands of Kiwanis clubs annually observe the day in cooperation with Kiwanis International.

"Plans for the fourth annual celebration of Kids' Day here are almost complete," Lindemann added. "In keeping with the purpose of the day, which is to attract more attention to the problems of youth and to raise funds to meet these needs, our entire program is designed to provide material help to youth in our community."

LINDEMANN stressed that National Kids' Day is not a commercial vehicle. "All funds raised through Kids' Day activities will remain in our community to be spent under the supervision of Kiwanians and other interested youth organizations."

Kiwanis International has been active in youth work for 37 years and Kids' day is now one of the principal activities of the organization, Lindemann said.

"Look how well Kiwanis clubs did on Kids' day in 1951," he pointed out. "More than a million youngsters benefited from the $432,784 raised by Kiwanians."

Lindemann cautioned against a possible tendency to overlook youth problems because of the tense national political campaigns and world conditions. "We must do better this year than ever before. Kiwanians and other civic minded residents of Arlington Heights will have an opportunity through National Kids' day to join millions of fellow North Americans in observing a day set aside especially for helping youth."

LIBRARY CORNER

by MRS. CHARLES KULE

Hours:
Monday - Tuesday - Thursday — 3-6 p. m. 7-9 p. m.
Wednesday - Friday - Saturday 9-12 — 1-6 p. m.

Another month has gone by and the number of books in circulation continues to break all records. More than 4,000 books were checked out during the month of August, with more than 200 new registrations; a further indication of the need for the new and enlarged quarters for your local library.

Visiting librarians and board members from various parts of the state have made it a point to visit the library, and many exclamations have been made when viewing the spaciousness, the modern lighting and excellent taste in furnishings for both beauty and efficiency.

Special attention is called this week to the overdue books that have perhaps been tucked away on the book shelves, or forgotten during busy vacation planning and trips. Many patrons, both adult and juvenile, will receive in the mail this week, cards reminding them of books that are overdue. Make it a special point, now that school is about to begin, to get that library book back in circulation, along with your fall routine in the home and school. Fines can be costly, and the books are needed for your friends.

"The Distant Shore," by Jan de Hartog is a full, rich novel which highlights his gifts as a storyteller: his love of adventure and good times, his sense of the mystery in life and his warm, understanding way with people. His quest, as a seaman, took him below the sea, with a crew of fanatical divers whose happiest hours were passed in the strange lights of the underwater depths, in a realm of haunting peace and sudden violence. In a series of thrilling dives, the Skipper came to know this world of nature and, at last, to find his destiny above in the world of men. This promises to be one of the outstanding novels of the fall season.

While we are on the subject of seas, the story of the Indian Ocean, "Monsoon Seas," by Alan Villiers is one of the most fascinating in the world. Alan Villiers brings to this new book all the interest of a man who has sailed this ocean in everything from an Arab dhow to a World War II landing craft. He knows personally the dangers of taking a full-rigged ship through the Straits of Bali at night. In "Monsoon Seas," he has written a book which combines a colorful wealth of personal adventure with the Indian Ocean's dramatic history.

For those who like to travel by land there is North Callahan's new book, "Smoky Mountain Country." The author, journalist and native of the region, gives a full picture of the land and its courteous, proud, easygoing people. He traces the story from its beginning before the American Revolution, down to the present day. He writes about the lives and folk customs of a people who, until very recently, were untouched by twentieth-century life. He tells, too, about the natural wild erness in which sportsmen can find plentiful fish and game. And he gives facts and useful information about such modern tourist meccas as Gatlinburg, at the entrance to the famous Smoky Mountain National Park. Here, in short, is a complete picture of one of the most colorful regions in the United States.

"Midcentury Journey," by William L. Shirer. "If you come along with me on this midcentury journey you will feel proud and glad, I think, as I did, despite the tribulations which beset us all, to be living at this tumultuous time in so great an age." So says the author, reporter, novelist and social historian as he reappraises the European scene and gives us a modern European diary, a book comparable in scope and power to his famous Berlin Diary. A Midcentury Journey is a journey in space and time through Western Europe and the United States. At the journey's end, the reader has a trained observer's first hand view of where we are and how we got there; and some pointers on how to make the second half of the century a more peaceful era.

For the lover of art who is interested in mixing his own colors for his canvas, either as a hobby or professionally, there is "The Technique of Oil Painting," by Leonard Richmond. The problems of technique in the actual handling of the materials in the medium of oil are fully discussed in this enlightening book.

"Border Graze," by Dwight Bennett is a new western this week.

"Where does the sun go when it sets?" "What makes the night come after the day?" In the new children's book, ages 6-9, "Follow the Sunset," by Herman and Nina Schneider, with beautifully colored illustrations, one finds the answers.

Two More Study Groups Complete Plans

MRS. DONALD THOMPSON
Community Camera

MRS. WM. BREITSPRECHER
Community Camera

As the opening of the club season draws near, two more study groups of the Arlington Heights Woman's club — international relations, and literature and drama — have announced their plans.

The international relations group, under the chairmanship of Mrs. William L. Breitsprecher, has lined up some thought-provoking programs. At the first meeting in November, the day before election day, Mrs. A. H. Franzen will be the featured speaker. Her topic, "Foreign Policy Issues," should remind club members of the importance of voting whichever party they may favor. The foreign policies of both the Democratic and Republican parties will be discussed by Mrs. Franzen at this meeting. Mrs. Franzen is a serious student of international affairs.

Mrs. Milton Daniels will address the January meeting of the group. Her subject, "Aid to the World's Children," is a report of what the United Nations is doing to help unfortunate children all over the world. Mrs. Daniels recently returned from a trip to New York, where she sat in on some of the sessions of the United Nations assembly and was able to observe and make note of what is being done to rehabilitate the coming generation in war-torn countries.

The third international relations meeting in February will have Miss Molly Imlach, of British information services, as its speaker. Her subject, "The British Picture Today," will give us a better understanding of life in England at the present time.

The March meeting, which will be the final one of the season for this group, will present a picture of present day France. Clifford J. Gallant, of the teaching staff of the Arlington Heights township high school, has been teaching in France, and he will tell about that country.

Mrs. Breitsprecher, with the help of her able committee, Mrs. R. E. Clabaugh and Mrs. LeRoy Knoeppel, has assembled a group of speakers who promise to make the International Relations meetings for 1952-53 significantly memorable. Although she is a comparative newcomer to the Woman's club, Mrs. Breitsprecher has already demonstrated her wholehearted interest in club affairs as chairman of the hospitality committee last year.

MRS. DONALD Thompson, chairman of the literature and drama study group, has the distinction of being a member of the Arlington Heights Woman's club for the third time. Twice her family has moved to other parts of the country, but each time they returned to the vicinity of Chicago and Mrs. Thompson hastened to rejoin the Woman's club in Arlington Heights. She has been interested in various activities of the club, notably taking part in its hobby day a few years ago. Currently, in addition to her Woman's club work, she is involved in putting the finishing touches on the old fashioned kitchen and the entertainment for the Antique and Hobby Show at the Methodist church.

Mrs. Thompson and her committee, which consists of Mrs. Robert Bishop, Mrs. Charles Heiss, Mrs. Fred Paulsen and Mrs. Albert Seidel, have planned an entertaining season for the literature and drama study group.

"The Life of a Book Editor" will be the theme of Dr. Alfred C. Ames' talk before the October meeting. Dr. Ames is associate editor of the Chicago Tribune's 'Magazine of Books' and one of its regular reviewers. His timely and revealing remarks will interest all book lovers as well as book reviewers.

In November, the radio speech class of the Arlington Heights township high school class of forensics, will present one of their programs. The members of this class have been acquiring an enviable reputation and never fail to entertain the audience, whether the subject be of a light or a serious nature.

Another well known local group, members of the talent bank of the Village Theatre, Inc., will be the attraction at the February meeting. Details of this program will be announced at a later date.

As the high point of the season, the Literature and Drama group will be joined by the music study group in April for luncheon at the Kungsholm restaurant in Chicago, and they will attend a performance of the much-publicized puppet opera. Club members are looking forward with much pleasure to this rare experience, where most of the world's greatest operatic voices, recorded, accompany puppets in authentic costumes in the performance of famous operas.

Women of the Moose

Des Plaines chapter 835, Women of the Moose, held an open meeting August 28. Mrs. E. Bielinski, Mooseheart alumni chairman, presented Miss Virginia Dieckman, who played two piano selections.

Mrs. J. Schuman, senior regent, presided at the meeting.

Birthday presents from their secret pals were presented to several members, Mrs. E. Hacker, Mrs. S. Engh, Mrs. W. Tistle, Mrs. E. Crowcroft, Mrs. E. Rykema, Mrs. Dean, Mrs. J. Ermeling and Mrs. S. Stockton.

At the recent convention in Chicago Mrs. W. Eigenbrode and Mrs. A. Richter were presented with their cap and gown to the college of regents. The chapter presented them with a gift in appreciation of the work they did.

Miss Ann Horsewell, the student nurse that the Women of the Moose sponsor, will be presented with a pair of cuff links with the nurses' insignia.

The next meeting will be a business meeting September 11.

A dance will be held at the Moose Lodge September 13. An orchestra will furnish music and refreshments will be served.

September 18 is the date of a social party.

Following the meeting refreshments were served by Mrs. M. Cully, Mrs. J. Johnson, Mrs. J. Mackey, Mrs. D. Mette, Mrs. A. Reis, Mrs. J. Ermeling, Mrs. C. Engel, Mrs. A. Richter, Mrs. E. Van Stockum, Miss J. Crowcroft, Miss M. Laatsch, Mrs. W. Berg and Mrs. E. Bielinski, chairman.

Obscure Vision One Factor of Collisions

Obscured vision was a factor in one out of every eight of the fatal automobile accidents last year, according to the national safety council.

"Accident Facts," the council's statistical yearbook, shows nearly half of the visual obstructions were rain, snow or sleet on the windshield. A fourth of the obstructions were trees, buildings and other things along the highway or adjacent to it. The remaining fourth resulted from parked and moving cars.

Glare from headlights or the sun was reported infrequently. Out of the 20 states reporting interference with vision, 11 reported no drivers blinded by headlights—and these 11 states had more than 9,000 drivers involved in fatal accidents.

CIRCLING THE TOWN

BY PHYLLIS KNIGHT

Something in the nature of a souvenir, but ideal for one's kitchen and an equally nice gift, the "Country Kitchen" cook book will, we predict, become one of the outstanding features of the Antique and Hobby show. The show will be held next week Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at the Methodist Meeting house.

The book, attractively printed with brown ink and with a hard-board cover and spiral binding, features best recipes of many members of the church. What makes the book especially interesting is the fact that a goodly number of the recipes have already passed the true test—they've been exchanged and tried by those noted cooks, the ladies who work in the kitchen each year during the three-day run of the show.

The tea hours, held each afternoon at St. John's church where some of the exhibits will be held, will offer cakes made from the recipes in the book, and "grandmother's" pickles and relishes, also from the book may be sampled by guests during the dinners served at the Methodist church.

Recipes are signed by the individuals contributing them, and there's even a section for father's favorites, a collection which shows the hearty fare dad enjoys most. Each section of the book is introduced with a clever verse or saying in a distinctive style of writing.

Even the advertising, which incidentally, made the book possible through paying printing costs, is mighty attractive and well laid out.

All in all, Mrs. Robert J. Marsh, chairman, and her co-chairman, Mrs. Richard Bronwell, together with all the people who helped them, have made a unique new contribution to the always popular Antique and Hobby show.

To Get Acquainted

With the express purpose of getting to know each other and their new pastor, Rev. Harold T. O'Hara, members of the new Catholic parish, Our Lady of the Wayside, will picnic Sunday on the church grounds from 1 to 5 p.m.

It's a "bring your own lunch" affair, with games for every age group providing the entertainment. On the docket, for instance, are an egg-throwing contest for adults, as well as numerous foot races for boys and girls.

To facilitate the "get-acquainted" idea, parishioners will be given numbered tags to wear as they arrive, and those who find the person wearing the duplicate number during the course of the afternoon will receive a prize.

Nursery School Time

The Arlington Heights Nursery school, increasingly popular as time goes on and as parents come to realize its value, began the 1952-53 year Tuesday with the assembling of three- and four-year-olds at the Presbyterian church.

Director Mrs. James T. Lambdin has divided the class into two separate groups this year, one for the younger and the other for the older children. Nursery school meets five mornings a week.

Though the enrollment is larger than ever this year, a few children can still be accommodated. Mrs. Lambdin will be glad to talk to interested mothers at CLearbrook 3-7337.

Corn Time

An affair annually popular in the Young Married Couples club of the Presbyterian church—their corn roast—will take place this Friday at Lake Avenue Woods West. Aside from the corn, it's a pot luck party with arrangements in charge of the Carl Scheskes and the Peter Toffolis.

Jaycees Hold First Fall Meet September 4

The Wheeling Township Junior Chamber of Commerce will launch into its second year of community service activities when the chapter meets at 7:45 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 4, in the Arlington Heights field house.

The local Jaycee group was founded less than a year ago. Although the chapter was actually functioning last November, the official charter was not received until January 17. The Jaycees, as they are better known, are a local chapter of the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce, which is an international organization dedicated to the dual purpose of civic service and training for dynamic leadership in civic affairs. It is a young man's organization founded in the belief that it is the young men of every community who should assume the responsibility for active leadership toward needed and worthy enterprises for civic betterment.

The local group is open to young men who live in Wheeling township, are between 21 and 35 and who demonstrate that they are themselves first-class citizens of their community who desire to participate in making their community a better place in which to live and work. There is no official connection between the Jaycees and the Chamber of Commerce, though there is frequently cooperation between the two groups in areas of mutual civic interest.

The motto of the local Jaycees has always been to cooperate with any and all organizations to achieve necessary and desirable goals for the betterment of the communities in Wheeling township. Whenever and wherever there is a need which has not yet come to the attention of other community groups, the Jaycees have believed it was their responsibility to start the ball rolling and seek the active support of the other organizations.

During the past year the local Jaycee chapter has successfully participated in and carried out such activities as the solicitation of over 150 pledges for the Korean blood drive, the construction of a wooden lung respirator for the temporary relief of polio, sponsored a dance at which the wooden lung was presented to the Prospect Heights fire department, established a Jaycee Women's auxiliary, operated a booth at the Prospect Heights Volunteer fire department carnival to help raise funds for that organization.

An expanded program of both civic and social activities is planned for the coming year. Young men of character who desire an opportunity to help improve their community, gain experience in leadership, enjoy good fellowship, and are between 21 and 35 are urged to attend this first meeting. (ACM

Golf: A Brave Man's Game

Chicago, Ill. — When Papa trudges off each Saturday morning to play golf, Mama, you shouldn't be irked with him for failing to beat the rug or mow the lawn. Instead, you should be proud and compassionate, for he knoweth not whither his steps lead him. And he meets his fate bravely, with the courage and temper of the enraged bull. Consider the hazards he faces.

On the first tee, he must drive his ball while bearing the full impact of the critical gaze of those foursomes awaiting their turns. This is, indeed, no place for a timid man. I once watched a golfer, a victim of first tee-itis, swing mightily at his ball, and miss the little monster by a foot. Mortified, and while unwinding from his herculean effort, he inadvertantly hit the ball on the backswing into a group of waiting, snickering onlookers. He was so unnerved he retired from the field, and probably took to drink later on.

These are some of the things Papa must remember each time he hits the ball. Keep the left arm straight, follow through, do not lunge at the ball, keep the head down, do not close the clubhead, easy on the backswing, get some wrist into it, do not push with the right hand, pull through with the left hand, keep the right elbow close to the body, pivot the hips naturally, and don't look up. Men have risen to the presidency of their companies with less than that to remember. And think of trying to remember all that while standing in navel-high rough, the ball there, because he forgot some of those items on the preceding shot.

And while he's hitting long drives and beautiful approach shots, he feels like shooting himself because he is missing one foot putts. When he hits 250 yard drives all day long he must still negotiate the 16th, a hole with a small creek cutting across it about 50 yards from the tee. While he tees up his ball on this hole he has the sensation that the creek is a mile wide and he can feel water seeping into his lungs. If he had a life preserver he'd put it on because he knows he's gonna need it. And he does. He flails away in bushes, sand and deep weeds and expends enough energy to dig a well forty feet deep. In fact, he's dug several divots he's afraid he'll fall into.

So, don't despair, Mama. If he doesn't have the temper of a Saint and the patience of Job, he'll develop those traits and be a better man for it. If he doesn't, he'll quit golf forever — well, until next year, anyway.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

The Science of being applies to man and shows him as born of God, therefore fearless, sinless, deathless, held forever in a pure affection. This will be explained in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, September 7. The title of the Lesson-Sermon will be MAN.

The Golden Text is from I John (3: 1) "Behold, what manner of love the Father hath bestowed upon us, that we should be called the sons of God."

Bible selections (King James Version) in the Lesson-Sermon include:

"Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven . . . Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect" (Matt. 7: 21; Matt. 5: 48).

Selections from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, include:

"When speaking of God's children, not the children of men, Jesus said, 'The kingdom of God is within you;' that is, Truth and Love reign in the real man, showing that man in God's image is unfallen and eternal. Jesus beheld in Science the perfect man, who appeared to him where sinning mortal man appears to mortals. In this perfect man the Saviour saw God's own likeness, and this correct view of man healed the sick" (pp. 476, 477).

Favorites for Flavor

By Lois Seiler

Each year residents of Arlington Heights look forward to the delightful smorgasbord sponsored by the Mothers' club of St. Peter Lutheran church.

September 26 the mothers will combine their finest culinary efforts and present an extensive array of wonderful foods. The event will be held in the new activities building of the Lutheran school.

This month four mothers, who are reputedly excellent cooks, will have the recipe of their contribution to the smorgasbord featured in this column.

A delicious Banana Nut Cake which is fluffy and moist, and a real taste treat, will be brought to the smorgasbord by Mrs. Arnold Scharringhausen of 1217 S. Pine, Arlington Heights.

This delightfully high cake is made in three layers and is frosted with a seven-minute White Mountain icing. If the weather is very hot, Mrs. Scharringhausen uses a butter frosting and keeps the cake in the refrigerator.

Another fine feature about this cake is that it is made using the simple one-bowl method. And it makes a big hit as a birthday cake.

Mrs. Scharringhausen has been a member of the Mothers' club for six years, and is starting her second year as menu maker for the St. Peter school lunch program.

The Scharringhausens have three sons, twins Lawrence and Carl, 11 years old, and Paul, 22 months.

Banana Nut Cake

2½ cups sifted cake flour
1 2/3 cups sugar
1¼ tsp. baking powder
1¼ tsp. soda
1 tsp. salt
2/3 cup shortening
1/3 cup buttermilk
1¼ cups mashed bananas (3 bananas)

Sift the dry ingredients together. Add the shortening, buttermilk and mashed bananas and beat well. Then add:

1/3 cup buttermilk
2 large eggs

Beat well again and lastly fold in:

2/3 cup chopped nuts

Pour the batter into three 8-inch greased layer cake tins. Bake in 350 degree oven for 30 to 35 minutes. Top with a 7-minute White Mountain frosting. Serves 14.

Pastor H. J. Thomsen officiated.

White gladioli decorated the church, and Bob McFadden sang "Because" and "Perfect Peace" accompanied at the organ by Miss Helen Peterson.

The bride wore a gown of white satin fashioned with a fitted bodice and long pointed sleeves. Her fingertip length veil of white net and lace was held in place by a halo headpiece, and she carried spray of lilies of the valley on a white Bible.

Mrs. Mary Rogers was the matron of honor. She wore a gown of pink organdy and carried a spray of tiny pink roses on a white Bible.

Mrs. Thelma Burton, the bridesmaid, wore a gown of blue organdy and also carried a spray of tiny pink roses on a white Bible.

Mrs. A. B. Lytle is chairman of the tea which will open the club's social activities for the season.

Fashion Show For Benefit Of Girls' Home

A fashion show will highlight the first party of the recently organized Junior Auxiliary of the House of the Good Shepherd, Chicago. The party will be held at 3:30 p. m. September 16 in the Narcissus room of Marshall Field and Co.

Proceeds will be used as a nucleus for the establishment of a "Transition House" as an affiliate of the House of the Good Shepherd, 1126 W. Grace st.

Jean and Eunice Kennedy organized the Junior Auxiliary in May 1952 and though the fundamental structure of the unit is still nebulous to a degree, the aims are definite. A "Transition House" is the immediate goal.

Such an institution provides a bridge to secure the adjustment of a graduate from the House of the Good Shepherd—a corrective rather than a punitive place—for the young girl who has slipped from the conventional—when she leaves the institution until she is established as a self respecting wage earner.

Transition Houses—New York, Boston, and Kansas City have thriving and gratifying ones—are conducted on the lines of a sorority house at colleges or universities. There is a house mother, the food is good, and comfort and charm abound.

President of the Junior Auxiliary is Mrs. James Priebe and she and Mrs. Martin O'Shaughnessy are chairmen in charge of the September fashion show. At that time, too, a plea will be made for surplus winter clothing to give to the graduates.

Church Guild To Sponsor Thanksgiving Ball

November 28, the Friday after Thanksgiving, has been cleared with the Community Council of Arlington Heights and all friends and members of the Evening Guild of St. John's Episcopal church, Mt. Prospect, are urged to keep the evening free for the annual Thanksgiving ball to be held at the Elmhurst Country club.

Bill Walker and his Pump Room orchestra have again been engaged for the dance.

Rev. Thomas K. Chaffee Jr., rector of St. John's, met with the members of the dance committee at the home of Mrs. R. C. DeZur in Arlington Heights August 28 to discuss plans in connection with the dance.

At the conclusion of business, Mrs. DeZur served refreshments to those present: Mrs. Edward D. Baumgartner, Mrs. Leon L. Green, Mrs. J. Herbert Haynsworth, Miss Betty Miles, Mrs. Clair B. Owen Jr., Mrs Robert R. Stark, Mrs. James O. Turney, Mrs. Joseph H. Vavra, Mrs. Robert A. Waters and Father Chaffee.

Presenting the Younger Generation

Orndorff offspring

Representing Arlington Heights little folks this week are the three children of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Orndorff of 433 S. Belmont.

Karen, the youngest member of the family, is 3½ years old. She is a very sociable brown haired, brown eyed little girl, loves to be with people as well as her variety of pets. The pets consist of a dog, cat and several parakeets.

Nine and one-half year old Ruth, or big sis, is a fifth grader at the new Dryden Place school and also has brown eyes and hair. Her specialties are horses and parakeets. At the Kohahna Camp near Maple City, Mich., which Ruth attended this summer, she took third place in a horse show and won a trophy for all around sportsmanship. Ruth has five pair of parakeets and loves to care for them.

Blond and brown eyed Owen is the middle-man of this trio. He is 6½ years old and will be a first grader at the Dryden school. Fishing is his favorite sport. He had plenty of opportunity to drop his line and hook this summer at a boy's camp near Glen Arbor, Mich.

Dr. and Mrs. B. H. Orndoff of Long Lake, Ill. are the paternal grandparents of the children. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Keith Owen of Terre Haute, Ind.

Best of pals

Next we have Kathy and Jackie Kanne, children of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kanne of 1619 W. Oakton st., Arlington Heights.

Both have sparkling dark brown eyes, brown hair and similar smiles. Kathy will celebrate her fifth birthday the thirteenth of this month and will enter kindergarten at the North school next week.

Three year old Jackie will no doubt be lonesome for his playmate when she goes off to school. He missed Kathy quite a little when she went on a two week trip to New York with her grandmother this summer. The children enjoy their bicycles and love to watch their pet turtle, Snappy, who compares in size with a salad plate.

Mr. and Mrs. V. Kanne of Chicago and Mrs. Blanche White of Chicago are the grandparents.

Bisons to Open Against Leyden JVs Next Week

The 1952 edition of the Bensenville high school grid squad will open its season with a non-league game against the Leyden junior varsity Saturday night, September 13. Coach Tom Meneguin reports that the team will be built around eight returning veterans and a number of promising sophomores. The regulars from '51 are tackles Tom Walsh and Harvey Larsen, guards Claude Vandruska and Art Jolie and backs Peter Welch, Ronnie LaFata, Chester Koop and Charles Hernandez.

THE BISON schedule includes:
September 13—Leyden JVs, here.
September 20—Palatine, here.
September 27—Grant, there.
October 4—Grayslake, there.
October 10—Wauconda, here, homecoming.
October 25—Ela-Vernon, here.
November 1—Antioch, here.

Wheeling Out Of Tourney

The Wheeling All Stars lost to Brighton Park Friday night, 10-2, at Thillen's stadium.

Wheeling played well considering this was their first experience under lights and that they were playing a team out of their class in both physical stature and ability.

Brighton Park scored in every inning. Seven were tallied in the first two, while Wheeling was getting over the jitters.

Wheeling scored two in the sixth on walks and a slashing single to right by Jesse.

BARTMANN started for Wheeling and gave up five hits and seven runs in two innings. Brighton Park had earned four runs in these two frames.

Halverson pitched the next three, allowing six hits and three runs while striking out six batters.

Wheeling came away from the game feeling they had gained much experience for next year as practically all 15 players saw action.

SUNDAY WHEELING traveled to Niles and won a close game, 7-6. Again all 15 players saw action with Bartmann, Halverson and L. Cokenower sharing the pitching chores. Extra base hits went to Jesse with a double and triple and Glass with a double.

Tri-City Woman's Golf

Blind Bogey was the weekly event August 26 for the Tri-City Women's Golf league playing at Mt. Prospect country club. Winner on the first nine was Martha Melick and on the second nine Edythe Skelton.

Flight leaders as of August 26 were as follows:

A flight (Helen's Beauty Salon) Hazel Burnier and Dorothy Carter.

B flight (Van Driel's Drug Store) Jane Hansen.

C flight (Mt. Prospect State Bank) Lois Rezner.

D Flight (Top Hat Cleaners) Elsie Kurtz, Dory Rohner.

E flight (Mt. Prospect Pastry) Bernie Mehleck.

The league is playing through September 23 this year with the closing luncheon set for September 30. Matched play continues Sept. 9 and 16. Special event or play day will be held September 23 instead of September 9 as previously scheduled.

Chicago Cardinals at Comiskey Park Sunday

Chicago Cardinals football squad opens its Chicago schedule this Sunday afternoon, September 7, with an exhibition against Green Bay Packers. Gene Ronzani, former Bear now coaching the Packers, will be out to show Chicago friends his squad has got it this year, while the Cards will be aiming for the win column after a not-too-successful exhibition circuit.

First league game for the south siders will be against Washington September 29.

BOWLING PICKUPS

Final pickups of bowling scores at Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect bowling alleys will be made Tuesdays at 1 p.m. Pickup at Hi-Way recreation in Palatine is made at 9-p.m. Tuesdays.

MAC SAYS

BY G. A. McELROY

When the Northwest conference football season opens September 20 Grayslake will officially be in the league on a regular competitive sports basis. The new member of the league takes the place of Barrington, four time grid winner in a row, who takes Grayslake's place in the North Suburban conference. This action came last winter as a result of recommendations of a committee made up of members of both leagues. It was recommended at the same time that fast growing Palatine shift places with Warren. The latter refused to make the shift and Palatine will continue to compete in the Northwest conference of which they were an original charter member back in 1925.

GRAYSLAKE WILL BE ENTERING the new alignment at a time when they have probably the best athletic material since the school was formed. Their junior varsity teams were unusually strong last year and they have enough returning veterans in all sports to make them a real contender in the new league.

Jack Stickels, who directed the sports destiny of the Grayslake Rams the past five years, has left to coach at East Aurora but a good staff of coaches has been lined up for 1952-53 season.

Art Rooney will have charge of varsity football with two assistants. Entry into a new conference has evidently encouraged grid candidates for close to 80 have turned out to try for the three teams the school sponsors. Grayslake has four regulars returning in Captain Don Bauer, Jerry Caldwell, Wally Giernoth, and Jack Ward. While other schools will be playing league games September 20, Grayslake will be meeting Maryville of Des Plaines in a home game. The Northwest is a seven team league for a couple of years until Northbrook's school is completed so each school has a non-conference date sometime during the season. Grayslake's first Northwest game will be played at Wauconda September 27 and the Bulldogs are rated one of the top teams.

THE NORTHWEST CONFERENCE in football this year is probably the most evenly matched in the history of the league. There appears to be no standout team.

Everyone lost their key men last year. Wauconda has the most returning veterans but cannot replace boys like Kersten and Nolan in one season. Palatine and Northbrook joined forces but each individually would have been woefully short of material. Together they will field a contender but at this time the team cannot be tabbed anything like a sure thing to win the championship.

Reviews of prospects of the various teams are being made each week in this column and in other sports articles. Prior to the league openers an unbiased appraisal of the strength of the teams will be made. At this writing it looks like all the teams will be fairly good but none outstanding. The championship in football is up for grabs with the potent Barrington Bronchos seeking new laurels in a stronger league.

THERE ARE FEW RULES CHANGES in football this year. It is just as well for most people have enough trouble understanding what is going on in a football game without a lot of new regulations to snarl their thinking.

This year if the coaches fail to stay on the bench in their restricted area the referee must impose a five yard penalty.

We never could see much sense anyway in the coach parading up and down the sidelines where spectators can heckle him and tell him who ought to be playing, or he can more easily be heard and more apt to criticize the officials. It is a good rule and we hope the officials carry it out to the letter. The only other important rule is that an entering substitute must remain in the game one play and a player taken out may not be returned until a play has been run.

PAUL OBENAUF who pitched Ela-Vernon to a share of the Northwest conference baseball championship last spring has been announced as the top hitter of the Shore Line conference, an independent town team league. Obenauf hit a lusty .462 with team mate Eddie Prouty second with .438. Prouty played short and Obenauf first base. Lake Zurich was the top hitting team with a .286 mark. Other .300 hitters were Jerry Centoni .326, Mike Rizzo (manager) .325, and Dave Ritta .300.

IT WAS A SHOCK to all Barrington and Northwest conference sports fans to learn that John Popp was killed in action in Korea.

Popp, who was all conference halfback on two Northwest champion grid teams for Barrington, was also champ sprinter of the league in the 100 and 220 yard dashes.

Popp, out of high school only one year, was in service only six months. He was a fine athlete who was liked and respected by both teammates and opponents.

IT PAYS TO PICK A WINNER. Jim Rusch of Park Ridge is a second year caddy at Tam-O-Shanter golf club. He got lined up at May's big tournament as caddy for Julius Boros. It really paid off for the $25,000 world winner gave the caddy $400 for his five afternoons of bag toting including the playoff. Caddying at better than $4.00 a hole is quite a fee but no caddy ever before worked for a $25,000 winner.

"BROTHER AGAINST BROTHER" might well be the title of the Arlington Heights homecoming game against Glenbard.

Bill Beckman assists Cardinal grid mentor "Bus" Ormsbee at Heights while Walt Beckman does the same job helping Glenbard's coach, Don Fortunato.

Walt played under Fortunato in his freshman year at DeKalb when the yearling eleven copped all six games, and is rated "good player, good coach, and knows his stuff" by his boss.

45 Out

Frosh Gridders Get Plenty of Attention

Freshman sports are going to get a lot of attention at Palatine township high school this school year. A football squad of 32 frosh has been practicing since August 25 and was increased to 45 by added candidates since classes got underway and the transportation problem has been solved. This year's frosh crop appears to be much better than usual both in numbers, quality and attitude of the boys.

Probably no frosh grid squad in the area has a better staff of coaches to give instruction in the fundamentals of the game. Head frosh football coach, Chas. Feutz, was an all-state college quarterback at Dubuque university in Iowa where he won four football letters. Before that he was a grid star at Oak Park high school.

"Gene" Moylan, assisting with the frosh, is the varsity basketball coach. He played fullback for Dubuque university and earlier at Bucknell university while in the service. Russell Dowell, a new math teacher at Palatine, will assist with the frosh line. He won two letters in football as an end at Carthage college and four letters in track. He will assist Welty with varsity track next spring.

THE FRESHMEN have a schedule of seven games with one open date likely to be filled if an opponent can be found. The opener is at Antioch Monday, September 15. Other games are Arlington, here, September 25; Arlington, there, October 9; Elgin, there, October 16; Libertyville, here, October 23; Antioch, here, October 27; and Crystal Lake, here, October 30.

The thirty-two candidates who worked out before school opened Tuesday are: Bergo, Beyer, Stutzman, McDonald, Hess, Bondeson, Petersdorf, Verdung, Kolze, Thompson, Prust, Gunder, Parker, Brock, Podzimek, Anderson, Cornwell, Wundsam, Goddard, Coates, Brown, Harms, Goodwille, French, Guinan, Abramson, Bruno, Michael, Lutz, Wehner, Mitchell and Urhammer.

Mt. Prospect Merchants Lose In Little League

Mt. Prospect Merchants, local entrant in the Little League baseball tournament, were eliminated Monday by the Lexon A. C., 4-2, at Thillens stadium in Chicago.

Mt. Prospect played a good game and gained acclaim from fans in spite of defeat. The team, a group of 20 boys selected from 30 candidates at the outset of the season, hit the ball hard but all too often direct to opposing fielders. The Lexons had previously downed the Des Plaines all-stars, 12-2.

Soenkson, starting for the Merchants, pitched good ball, but had trouble with control. He escaped without a run being scored against him in the first inning, despite issuing two walks. In the second, after walking the first two, he was replaced by Thill, who retired the next two batters. Then Kmet, Lexon third baseman, tripled to left field. Conti, Lexon left fielder, singled him home for the third run. Thill then struck out Ranci, Lexon clean-up hitter to retire the side.

AT THE OUTSET of the 3rd Thill could not continue, due to a sore arm. Peterson, Mt. Prospect's 10 year old southpaw pitcher, then went in and allowed one hit and one uearned run in three innings. He was congratulated after the game.

For the Merchants offensively, it was Nau, Thill, Soenkson and Peterson with one hit each to lead their team.

In the fifth the local boys scored two runs without an out being made, on walks to Tews and Boedeker, and a ground ball by Wille. Stone attempted to force Tews at third on this play but Art slid in ahead of the peg.

SOENKSON then singled to center to drive in two runs. On a play at second Soenkson slid in safely ad Wille broke for the plate. A perfect peg nailed him for the out. Grams then smashed a line drive to center on which Knightly made a shoe string catch. Peterson drilled a single to left, Soenkson holding up at third. Thill nailed one to left center which Knightly took without moving. A couple of feet either way on these two drives and the Merchants would have been way out in front.

In th sixth the localites again threatened. Nau singled, Bjorklund grounded out, then Tews smashed a liner to left. Conti took this without moving. Boedeker then drove a curving line drive to right which Rafaeli took for the end of the game.

Redwings Lose To Boosters, 5-3

Arlington Redwings are just one game from elimination in league tournament play after dropping a 5-3 decision to Alderman Keane Boosters. One bad inning, the third, when four runs crossed the plate on two singles, two walks and a triple, sewed up the contest.

The Redwings retaliated in their half of the third with a single by Paul Lang, a walk to Ray Meathe, fielder's choice by Gene Wasco and a single by Pete Groh. The one run broke the ice, but that was all until the sixth.

AFTER GROH popped out, Hal Stange and Connie Hernbrott singled. Earl Simpson was on via fielder's choice as Hernbrott was caught at second, Stange scoring. Bob Wille walked but Art Scheiwe popped to the first baseman.

An error by second baseman Meathe set up the insurance run for the Boosters, Oniesio getting on base. He went around on a long fly and a single by Zieudzien.

Final tally for the Redwings was garnered when Schiewe, Lang and Meathe singling after two were out. A fly by Wasco ended the game.

THIS SUNDAY the Redwings again take on the Boosters at 3 p. m. in the second game of the "best of three" series for championship honors.

The Labor Day game was washed out.

Tom Rowader Wins McHenry Golf Title

Tom Rowader of Prospect Heights, former golf star at Arlington Heights high school and now sophomore member of the University of Illinois Greens squad, copped the McHenry county amateur golf title Sunday in a 36-hole match, 3 and 2.

Tom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Rowader, qualified and won six matches over six week ends, going the first 18 Sunday in 73, then coming back with 74 in the afternoon. This was the third year in the McHenry county tournament for Rowader, being a quarterfinalist last year.

Other Heights golfers in the tournament included Bob Botterman, Howard Kamps and Marvin Kamps.

Eight Veterans Back For Glenbard Football

Eight lettermen, including one junior, will provide the basis for Coach Don Fortunato at Glenbard high school as he prepares for the season opener at Wheaton next Friday, September 12.

Five linemen and three backs are included in the group. At fullback Roger Steib at 5' 9", weighing 175 pounds has reported. Two halfbacks include Tom Hill at 5' 9" weighig 165 pounds and Jack Hesterman at 5' 7" weighing 155 pounds.

BOTH CO-CAPTAINS are back this year for the Bards. Bill Jordan, standing 6' 2" and weighing 220 returns at center, while Bill Patch, 5' 10" and weighing 180 is back at one of the guards.

At the ends there are three veterans. They include Jack Peasley, 6' and 170 pounds and Don Duffey, 6' 2" and 175 pounds. Tom Peters, only junior among the lettermen, will be at end with his 6' 1" frame carrying 180 pounds.

LAST YEAR Glenbard had a 2-5-2 slate, beating York and Maine, while losing to Arlington, LaGrange, Hinsdale, Downers Grove and Riverside-Brookfield. Top four scorers for the Bards are gone, including Harp, Willis, Frost and Weichenhaim, representing 62 of the 86 points tallied in league competition.

At home this year Glenbard will be meeting Vocational, York, Hinsdale, Riverside and LaGrange. The Riverside-Brookfield affair is homecoming.

Busse Motors Hang On to Edge Van Driel's Golfers

In the Wednesday division of Mt. Prospect twilight golf league the team of Busse Motors surprised very few people in taking top honors in the Wednesday loop inasmuch as they had been on top almost all year.

Rollie Becker, class "B" player on the Busse Motor team, is certainly entitled to an evening of entertainment, or something like that, at the expense of his teammates, in view of the fact that he personally accounted for 27 of the team points and was very instrumental in staving off a last minute press for first place by Van Driel's Drug store, second place tenants and opponents of the leaders for the final game of the year.

Rollie Becker shot a neat 41-8 net 33 to clinch the team victory. Other notable facts were made when Art Skelton beat "300 yd." Carlson for a change.

In one of the other interesting events, a sparkling contest was produced when Jack Patheal, carding a 37-7 net 30, nosed out Dick Wistar who also had a 37-6 net 31, a tough one to lose and a good one to win.

Birdies were scored by Eddie Lange No. 7; Rollie Becker No. 3; Elmer Schmitt No. 12, Jack Patheal No. 16; and Len Johnson Jr. No. 11 all at the Mt. Prospect Country club.

Winning team members included: "A" George Henneberg; "B" Rollie Becker; "C" Art Skelton; "D" George Laubenheimer; "E" Ed. Maha.

Season Tickets On Sale for Five Heights Tilts

by BOB PADDOCK

"Weak at center, ends small but fairly fast, quarterback improving." With those ten words Coach "Bus" Ormsbee told the Arlington story as the Heights gridders went into their seventh day of practice.

The locals have an intrasquad game scheduled for this Saturday at 2 p. m. Season opener, a non-league affair against Barrington, is slated for Friday night, September 12, under the lights at Arlington.

Dick McAuliffe has not been tested at center to date, and may solve Ormsbee's problem. At ends the boys are small, but fast, with Ken Lemke looking particularly good at this time. The entire squad appears to have more sped than that of other years.

AT QUARTERBACK Dick Winterbauer is passing better than last season, and could be the number one boy. John Eakins, senior quarter, is being tried at halfback where his running ability may pay off. Problem with Winterbauer is to find boys to catch his tosses.

Transfers this year which may help are Charles Bundy of Georgia at tackle and Kay Schelfow from Maine at halfback. The latter lacks experience, however.

FIVE HOME GAMES, all doubleheaders under the lights, are on the docket for Heights fans. After openers with Barrington and Marmion, the Cardinals host Maine, York and Glenbard. Traveling games are at Riverside, LaGrange, Downers Grove and Hinsdale.

Double sessions at home will start at 6:15 p. m. while traveling doubleheaders will open at 12:15. The latter times are the result of West Suburban conference action standardizing starts. Formerly afternoon games started at 12:30 daylight time, and 12:15 standard time.

ANOTHER CHANGE made this year is the greater savings due fans who order season reserved seats. Five game ducats, same seats each game, are $5.00 while single game reserved seats are $1.25 per contest. General admission tickets will go the night of the game at $1.00 while students with ID cards will be admitted for 50c.

Season ducats represent an increase of 20c a game, brought on by increased costs of equipment and other expenses. All contests are doubleheaders this season, with the halftime entertainment provided by the band slated to be better than ever. In addition, football helps support spring sports enabling more boys to get into competition.

SEASON TICKETS are on sale at both the high school and at Millay's in Arlington Heights. Cardinal and White posters distributed throughout town tell of special events such as homecoming with Glenbard, "A" men's night and dad's night.

The schedule:
Friday, Sept. 12, Barrington, here, 6:15.
Friday, Sept. 19, Marmion, here, 6:15.
Saturday, Sept. 27, LaGrange, there, 12:15.
Friday, Oct. 3, Glenbard, here, homecoming, 6:15.
Saturday, Oct. 11, Riverside, there, 12:15.
Friday, Oct. 17, York, here, 'A' men's night, 6:15.
Saturday, Oct. 25, Hinsdale, there, 12:15.
Friday, Oct. 31, Maine, here, Dad's night, 6:15.
Saturday, Nov. 8, Downers Grove, there, 12:15.

Boat Races Sunday

Goldens Win Tuesday Golf By 7/6 Points at Mt. Prospect

The Cinderella team from Golden's Food shop did it. In a remarkable finish they nosed out the K. R. Whitton Realtors to win first place in the Tuesday division of the Mt. Prospect twilight golf league by the slender margin of one and one sixth points.

The Golden boys did it by winning eight out of a possible ten points from the third place team of Commissioner William Busse. The K. R. Whitton Realtors, who were in first place last week, were relegated to second when they were beaten, six to four, by Mt. Prospect Electric. This victory moved Mt. Prospect Electric from fifth to fourth place.

Members of the winning Golden team, who are to be congratulated for their determined rise and consistent play in the closing weeks of play are: Hal Jauch (captain); Rev. Thomas Chaffe; Bill Golden; Ed Planert and Bob Duncan.

This team will play the winners of the Wednesday division for the championship of the league. The date will be announced later.

Two of the Golden players scored birdies. They were Hal Jauch and Bill Golden. Other players scoring birdies were Harry Grimm, Bob Louthain, Bob Payne and T. C. Taylor.

Lohr Pharmacy 'Breezes in' For Arlington Golf Title

The tournament for Arlington Heights twilight golf league will be held at Arlington country club September 7. The banquet date and place is September 20, 7 p.m., at Union hotel, Wheeling.

Results of the last night of play found the strong Lohr's Pharmacy five out in front by 5½ scores; contender throughout the season Arlington Bowling Lanes in second by just one point; and Jahn's Service jumping from fifth to third, just in time to be "in the money" by two points. Borgardt's Sinclair ran a good fourth, missing a trophy by just two points.

LINGREN'S Men's Wear, near the top spot half the season and right on top five weeks of the twelve, met stiff competition in Mar Johnson's, gaining just 2½ on the last night, and found itself way down in sixth place in the final standings. Leader for Mar's was Bob McFadin, who scored a 35-8-27, best game of the year for any one in the league and lowest net of the year posted by a member.

Let's have a glimpse of what it takes to make a winning team: Myron Kuhlman, ending the season with a three handicap, scored 12 points for Lohr's, placing him tied for sixth in individual bracket standings; Marv Kamps, who scored ten points individually, and a never-say-die competitor; Joe Lohr scored 13½ points and came through with a 40 several times to cop that important low individual net point; Bud Rapp, always in there fighting, scored 15 individual points; and Paul Malchow, our nomination for most valuable of Lohr's five, came through with some mighty important scores during the season. Paul earned 16 points, making him top scorer in the No. 5 bracket.

MEMBERS of second place Arlington Bowling Lanes are Ernie Simmons, Stan Luczak, Charles Staadt, Jerry Rogers and Bill Dobbelaere. Third place Jahn's Service consists of Tony Felker, Howie Kamps, John Eiler, Bill Lathen and Charlie Poss.

Schiller Carpet, while never in last place during the season, found itself in that spot after the last night of play, and therefore is elected to keep the cellar warm during the winter months.

The race all through the season for league leadership has been one of the closest in the history of the organization. At season's end the first place team has 85 points and the sixth place team has 75. This close scoring might be accounted for by the fact only 12 nights of play were consumed. If the usual 18 play dates had been used up, scoring would probably not be as close.

Winners in the individual standings are: No. 1 men, Chuck Kleinofen; No. 2 men, Mike Graft and Howie Kamps tied; No. 3 men, Wilbur Dearie; No. 4 men, John Eiler, and No. 5 men, Paul Malchow. High-scoring alternate is Art Davis. Prizes will be awarded these winners at the banquet September 20.

THE LEAGUE lost two playing dates via holidays May 30 and July 4. Another four dates were lost to the weatherman who called for heavy rains at tee-off time May 9, 23, June 13 and July 18. We doubt if the league has experienced four rain-outs the past five years combined.

Last night of play brings to a close this series of weekly articles with just a reminder of important dates: September 7 is tournament day at Arlington Country club, and September 20 is banquet day at Union hotel, Wheeling, at 7 p.m.

Final standings:

Lohr's Pharmacy	85
Arlington Bowling Lanes	79½
Jahn's Service	78½
Borgardt's Sinclair	76½
Lauterburg and Oehler	76
Lingren's Men's Wear	75
Tody's Lounge	72½
Mar Johnson's	69½
Dunteman's Dairy	64
Black's Memorial	62½
Arlington National Bank	62½
Schiller Carpet	59½

Can He Stop Davey?

Rocky Graziano, one of the most dangerous punchers in the history of boxing, gets ready for his Sept. 17 battle with undefeated Chuck Davey at the Chicago Stadium. Graziano is the former middleweight champion and has drawn both the largest indoor crowd and the largest indoor gate in the history of boxing right here at the Chicago Stadium.

While no welterweight has been able to stop Davey, Graziano has taken on the job and hopes to end the streak of 35 straight fights without a loss that the Michigan State slugger has going.

Bears vs Eagles Sunday, Giants Next Weekend

The youthful Chicago Bears engage in their third pre-season game of the 1952 training-campaign Saturday facing the Philadelphia Eagles in Duke university stadium, Durham, N. C.

Victorious over the Pittsburgh Steelers (14 to 9) in their first non-conference tilt, the Bears lost a close battle to the Browns in Cleveland last Friday night by the score of 14 to 7. However, the team continues to show great improvement in each start, and the Bear coaching staff is hopeful of another fine display this afternoon.

Head Coach George Halas has named two former North Carolina headliners in the starting lineup. They are Bill George and Bill Miller, both of Wake Forest College. George will be at right tackle, while Miller is slated to start at fullback in a combination which also includes Bob Williams, Chuck Hunsinger and Julie Rykovich. Other ex-Dixie aces who will appear in Bear regalia include Gene Schroeder (Virginia); Wash Serini (Kentucky); Larry Smith (South Carolina); Ed Bradley (Wake Forest); Jim Dooley (Miami); Hunsinger and Frank Dempsey (Florida); John Dottley (Mississippi) and George Blanda (Kentucky).

THE BEARS will return to their St. Joseph's college training base in Indiana immediately after the Durham game to prepare for the armed forces engagement with the New York Giants in Chicago a week from Sunday.

Following are the probable lineups:

Bears		Philadelphia

Des Plaines Home Show Opens Tuesday

Des Plaines third annual Home Show will open its doors to the public for six thrill packed nights and a Sunday matinee, starting next Tuesday, September 9 and continuing through Sunday, September 14. Doors will be open each night from 6:30 p. m. and close at 11 p. m.

Larry King, producer of the show says, "This year's home show is sure to meet with the approval of every member of the family, with something of interest for all."

FOR MOTHER, the very latest in home furnishings, gifts and new food products, many new ideas in remodeling and color schemes, for the modern home of today. For the children the newest in hobby crafts, and for dad the latest in building materials, new cars, sporting goods, even a full length motion picture on the champions of the golf course, as well as the full length picture of the 1951 World Series.

The newest in overhead garage doors and house trailers, are but a few of the many interesting exhibits. Every available foot of exhibit space has been sold and with two previous shows that had the public approval with their remarks as "great," "interesting," and "entertaining," this year's attendance is sure to set a new record for indoor shows in this area.

One of the many features that will be presented on the main stage each night will be a style show titled "Holiday For Fashions," with the latest in fall and winter apparel for every member of the family. Coats, dresses, suits, hats, for mother and sister, the smart fashions for the small-fry for back to school, and the latest for dad, giving him a preview of what the well dressed man will wear this fall. Forty thousand dollars in furs will also be shown, with one coat alone being valued at $30,000, furnished by the World-Wide Chinchilla Ranch. There are only ten coats throughout the entire world made from the Chinchilla Fur, known as the most valuable fur in the world.

A SPECIAL stage setting is being built, with a beautiful solid mirror back drop and special lighting effects, that will make this style show one of the most elaborate ever attempted in the suburbs. This is "a must see without fail" for every woman.

Rip Collins Tells Some of His Experiences in 27 Baseball Years

"There's no such thing as a good loser, but be a good sport in losing." Thus spoke Rip Collins, former baseball great before 60 assembled American Legion baseball team members, their dads and guests Thursday night in the Lutheran school auditorium in Arlington Heights.

Merle Guild Post No. 208 was saluting its team, ninth district second half champions, two Boys Staters and others in its youth program.

In charge of the program was Dennis Malcolmson, director of the Legion's youth activities in Arlington Heights. Present in addition to the boys and their dads were C. O. Michaelson, director of Junior Legion baseball, Herb Karl representing George C. Poole, Inc., co-sponsor of the team, coach Lloyd Meyer, and members of the Legion.

COLLINS PROVIDED his listeners with plenty of laughs, telling many of his experiences both as player with the famous Gas house Gang and as a manager. His method of telling was as entertaining as his subject matter with plenty of questions asked and answered both before and after the dinner.

Night baseball? "It saved baseball, but killed the player," stated Collins. "In the old days a player rose about 8 a. m., had a good breakfast, then went out to the park about 11 for the game. Afterwards a good dinner, an evening show or other entertainment, early to bed and a good night's sleep.

"Nowadays a player doesn't get up until noon, has a big meal, then loafs all afternoon waiting until game time and shows up all tired out. He plays until all hours of the night, then goes to bed only to sit around again the next day waiting for another ball game."

SENTIMENT ABOUT different teams? "Yes, I believe you do attach sentiment to certain teams, even though you play with several clubs," continued Collins. "I had two very good years with the Chicago Cubs, including the National league pennant in 1938, yet I think I look back more to those screwy, carefree, fun-loving days with the St. Louis Cardinals.

"Those were the days of playing with Joe Medwick, Pepper Martin, Dizzy Dean. Those guys were always good for laughs and kept a player from tightening up on the field."

Greatest moment in baseball? "I've got plenty of memories with the Gashouse Gang," stated Collins, "and recall lots of thrills including a four-run, ninth inning homer to beat the Cubs. But the greatest fun I had, exasperating as it was at times, was managing in the minors, dealing with young kids with their eyes glued on the majors.

"Those were the days of boners on the very plays on which we had practiced for hours, of players always ready with an alibi, of homesick youngsters learning to live with others. It made me feel I was helping create careers for some of those boys and provided satisfaction for me."

Bad, Not Better Business

'Bride of the Month' Now To Be 'Sucker of the Month'

The most recent fast buck operation coming to the attention of the Chicago Better Business bureau has to do with the "selection" by telephone of the "Bride of the Month."

According to A. B. Johnston, Mt. Prospect, brides-to-be say they receive a telephone call to the effect they have been chosen "Bride of the Month." They are instructed to come to the studio with their fiance to get a $25.00 gift and select a bridal bouquet, napkins to be printed in gold with the name of the bride and broom, tuxedo for the groom, etc.

UPON ARRIVING at the studio complainants say high pressure salesmen compliment them on being selected "Bride of the Month" and the couple is then taken into a small room and questioned about the size of the wedding, date, church arrangements, photographs, bridal gown, etc. During this time the salesman is making notes on a sheet of paper which the couple is then asked to sign. The couple is then taken into another room, introduced to another salesperson, who continues to ask questions, makes suggestions, takes notes, and who again requests their signatures.

This procedure may go on three or four times until the couple, according to one complainant, discovers these papers are, in fact, contracts for the purchase of such articles and services and for which substantial fees are charged. This contract also contains a confession of judgment clause in favor of the concern.

COMPLAINTS say they are given to understand on the telephone and during the beginning of the conversation, that these services are free because the girl has been chosen "Bride of the Month." Only after they begin asking questions, and usually after they have signed certain papers, do they learn the so-called gifts may be free only if orders are placed for other services or equipment for the wedding. One complainant who found out too late she and her fiance had signed up for more than $100 worth of services, said the only free gift she obtained was a picture frame.

ACTUALLY every bride-to-be is told she is the "Bride of the Month." The whole operation is a misleading procedure to lure prospective brides and grooms to the studio where, through high pressure and innuendo, they are induced to sign contracts for the type of services and articles mentioned. In the opinion of the Chicago Better Business Bureau, the methods used are deceptive and not in the public interest.

This operation is being conducted by the same principal who formerly offered free gifts and portraits to persons answering a radio mystery quiz tune and against which operations so many complaints were received from the public, that newspapers and radio stations dropped the firm's advertising.

Coaches Group to Meet At Aurora

The first of a series of fall and winter meetings of the Fox Valley area coaches and officials association will be held Monday, September 8, at East high school in Aurora. Membership is open to those wishing to join.

With a large number of teams starting schedules Friday or Saturday of next week, football is very much a topic of common interest, and a review of the rules, a study of the new rules, rule changes, and the rules interpretations in particular will be of special interest to the coaches and officials in the area.

Wisconsin Sold Out

All tickets for the Illinois-Wisconsin football game at Madison October 4 are sold and orders currently being received must be returned, George Legg, University of Illinois ticket manager, said.

'Wisconsin announced a sellout two weeks ago," Legg said, "and within a short time following this announcement the last of the Illinois allotment was sold."

Tickets are still available for all other Illinois games, Legg pointed out. "Season ticket sales exceeded those of 1951 by more than a thousand, but plenty of single game tickets are available."

It's College Camp at Michigan City for Davey in Training

Chuck Davey, undefeated contender for the welterweight title, who meets Rocky Graziano, former world's middleweight champion, in the most crucial fight in his young career, in the Chicago Stadium, September 17 has officially opened heavy drills in Michigan City, on the shores of Lake Michigan.

The camp, ideally situated in the heart of the Indiana resort area, has taken on a college atmosphere. Together with Chuck, training every day are Jedd Black, former NCAA welterweight champion from Michigan State and Chuck Speiser, Michigan State light-heavy-champion, who was a member of the United States Olympic team in 1948 and 1952. Both Black and Speiser will make their professional debut on the Davey-Graziano show.

Also in camp is Billy Noble, undefeated Grand Island, Nebr., heavyweight who is an undergraduate at the University of Nebraska. Noble will drill daily, boxing with Speiser, and will also appear on the supporting card.

Up every morning at 6:30, together with Black and Speiser, Davey does six miles of roadwork along the lake front. After a hearty meal and well nourished breakfast, Chuck relaxes until 1 p. m. when he begins his daily workouts at the local gym. Immediately following his daily drills, Chuck returns to his quarters, where he listens to the radio, writes letters, or engages in a bit of horse-play with his former Michigan State cronies. Time for supper, Chuck sits down to a meal of garden fresh salad, a thick steak, and a cup of tea. More relaxation, until 9 o'clock, when it's time to turn in.

Trick Shot

Paul Hahn, trick shot golfer, often called the clown prince of the links, will perform on the final day of the Western amateur championship at Exmoor country club, September 14.

Hahn who does almost impossible tricks with a golf club will also hold a full PGA clinic for the benefit of fans during the final 36 holes at Exmoor. Meanwhile the Western golf association is readying plans for the tournament which will see such top notch amateurs in action as Frank Stranahan, defending champion, Harvie Ward, British Open champion, Chick Evans, twice winner of the National Open and National Amateur plus eight time winner of the Western, and many others.

The Western is the second largest U. S. tourney and will be going into its 53rd year. With the site at Exmoor, the tourney will be returning to Chicago for the first time since 1930.

Wally's Summer Camp Nine Cops Tourney

Wally Grace, Arlington Hts. high school's retiring baseball coach, had another fling at coaching this past summer and proved he's still got it by coaching the Camp Kawaga championship team. The Kawaga nine, in competition with other boys' camps in the North Woods, lost just one of eight games played this summer, including a 12-2 drubbing given Camp Interlaken.

Going into the final inning in the championship game Grace's boys had a shutout with just two hits given up. They were leading, 12-0, with 17 hits already under their belts.

It was then that Interlaken cut loose with three safeties and tallied twice. Opposing pitcher had already registered two shut outs in season's play prior to being sent to the showers by Kawaga.

The winners proceeded to prove it wasn't luck by downing the camp counsellors, 2-0.

Illini Open Grid Practice

Fifty-nine candidates for the 1952 University of Illinois football team reported Wednesday for opening of fall drills. Coach Ray Eliot plans twice-a-day sessions for two weeks until university classes begin September 22.

Clarence "Bud" DeMoss, sophomore halfback from Villa Park (Elmhurst), will step into the shoes of All-American Johnny Karras at right half when drills begin with Billy Ellis, another sophomore from Carbondale, slated to get a chance to prove his worth. Ellis previously had been a fullback.

Pete Bachouros, senior from Chicago (South Shore) must defend his laurels at left half against Austin Duke, brilliant sophomore runner from Moline. Eliot figures he must depend primarily on this foursome to come up with a wide running attack which Karras and Don Stevens made so potent the last two seasons.

BILL TATE, senior from Mattoon, is in top shape to open at the No. 1 fullback slot, but the condition of Ed Gaus, junior from St. Louis and Tate's principal understudy, is giving Eliot concern. Gaus had an operation last spring and there's doubt that the knee has healed properly.

Baird Stewart, junior from Evanston, who missed the 1951 campaign because of illness, is ready for a try at fullbacking, and Ken Miller, halfback and punter of last year's squad, will also be tried. Miller is a junior from Bloomington.

Eliot will lose little time starting a search for tackle replacements in both the offensive and defensive lines. The Illini lost Chuck Ulrich and Dick Jenkins, starters on offense, and Marv Berschet of Arlington Heights from the defensive platoon by graduation.

Only three seasoned performers are available, Bob Weddell and Don Tate, both defensive players in 1951, and Bernie Elsner, junior from Chicago (St. Bede) who missed last season because of a knee injury.

LINEBACKING, too, will claim a great deal of attention from the Illini coaching staff. The entire corps of Chuck Boerio, Elie Popa, and Joe Cole, generally recognized as one of the best defensive groups in the Big Ten in 1951, must be replaced.

Returning is Joe Hall, junior from Carbondale, who was out last season because of ineligibility. Hall played brilliantly as a sophomore in 1950.

Other possibilities at linebacking roles include Herb Borman, junior letterman from Downers Grove and Paul Luhrsen, junior from Elmhurst.

Freshman Rule

Freshman football practice at University of Illinois will begin September 22, Coach Mel Brewer announced. This is opening day of classes for the fall semester.

Yearling gridders are no longer eligible for varsity competition since the one-year residence rule again became effective September 1.

In the Shadow of + + + The Steeple

by William O. McGill

If I were a political writer, I might say, Look for Stevenson to win by a sizable majority. But I'm not a political writer, and I simply want to point your attention to a book by Samuel Lubell, called "The Future of American Politics" (published by Harpers in late 1951). Mr. Lubell is a writer for "The Saturday Evening Post" most of the time, and occasionally for "The Reader's Digest;" so that he is not likely to be accused of being a New Dealer, and Stevenson is not even mentioned in the book.

Government in the United States is always government by coalition, is Lubell's thesis, and the coalition, which is the majority party, is the one to be recognized. The minority party is only a moon to the sun of the majority. It reflects the conflicts, but can do nothing about them until the coalition breaks, and one or more of the fragments unite with the minority to form a new majority.

THE MAJOR element in the coalition that is the Democratic Party is "a little matter of birth rates." During the years beginning with 1928 campaign, there have been coming of age the preponderance of the children of the cities. For the most part, these have been children of later migrants — both the European migrants and the Negroes which have made the cities a dominant element in national campaigns.

Another large element in the coalition is a tendency, and he has facts which suggest it, toward "playing off" on the part of the farmers. Farmers vote Democratic for President and Republican in the off-year elections. It is the towns which are consistently Republican.

His remarks about Mr. Truman are amusing, but he is cogent when he explains Mr. Truman as the result of a President —Congress impasse which has been going on since 1938. It is this impasse which provides the critical area of realignment of the aspects of the coalition. The crux of any realignment is not the publicized question, "More government or less government?" but the deeper question, "What is the role of government?"

Particularly is this true in terms of the problem of inflation. Whoever takes hold of this problem may have the possibility of bringing about a new future in American politics.

THE AREA to be claimed is that of the two middle classes. The old city migrant group has grown up from what might be styled a lower class to be a middle class with an "underdog" heritage. "Through this new middle class two eras in American history—two cultural halves —are meeting and clashing, eventually to be reconciled." (p. 257)

In spite of reaching for a conclusion, Mr. Lubbell half-heartedly admits that the coalition has not broken up as yet. Observers of the recent conventions are likely to agree that there is less chance of its breakup this year than was expected prior to the convention (as I write something cryptic has happened in South Carolina, but no one seems to know what it means; if it should prove significant, I have two outs: the book I am discussing is a year old, and I am not a political writer).

If you are interested in some of the reasons why politics came to the point where we find them today, you might dip into "The Future of American Politics." The title is overly hopeful, but it is a good underlying description of the recent past of American politics. In this year of decision, it perhaps should be required reading for every Republican—because it is the Republican party which must overcome the headstart of the majority in coalition by breaking off sections of that coalition and bringing them into a new alliance.

English, Reading Classes to Be Offered at Adult Evening School

Three classes aimed at improvement in English and reading will be offered in the adult evening school at Arlington Heights township high school this fall. A class in beginning English for those who have been in this country only a short time will be given Monday and Wednesday nights, meeting twice weekly for ten weeks. The students will be given assistance in writing skills, citizenship problems, elementary reading and speaking.

A class in improvement in English will also be held Monday for those desiring improvement in grammar, effective writing, and vocabulary. These classes have both been popular and well received by students who have had need for such skills.

ONE OF THE newer classes is entitled, "Improvement in Reading" also held on Monday night, which will be taught by a reading specialist of the high school staff. Special machines called reading accelerators are used to develop speed in reading. Last year many students raised their reading rate from 200 words a minute to as high as 800 and in exceptional cases over 1,000. Emphasis this year will also be given to increasing reading comprehension. This will be taught along with instruction in reading improvement. Success in modern business requires rapid reading rates, hence this is a practical class.

A class in public speaking will be offered and will present elementary instruction in the fundamentals of effective speaking, criticisms of speech delivery and mannerisms, gestures, and overcoming of stage fright. The class will be limited in enrollment so that much individual opportunity can be provided.

A new class offered for the first time will be entitled "Class Piano." There will be two sections Monday evenings; the first section being the beginning or elementary students. The second section for intermediates or those slightly more advanced. The students will benefit from criticism of their own playing as well as that of other students. It is easy to learn in a piano class. Enrollment again will be limited.

THE HIGH SCHOOL is fortunate in having an expert teacher in ceramics for this fall term. A new kiln has been purchased for the art room, and pieces may be fired at the high school. The class will be given Wednesdays by Mr. Fischer who has had considerable experience in ceramics work, in fact he has taught many teachers of ceramics in art work. Glazes of various kinds will be used and no previous experience is necessary. Most instruction will be individual.

A class in contract bridge will againbe held Wednesday evenings at which students who are beginners can take up the problem of bidding, how to lead, and other fundamentals of bridge playing. Registration can be individual, in couples, or by tables.

A commercial art course will be new this fall which will appeal to many business people and those employed in advertising or display of merchandise. The class will be held Monday evenings and taught by Mr. Fischer, an outstanding artist and teacher in this field.

Registration for night school will be held Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, September 22, 23, and 24, from 7 to 9 p.m., at the high school. Classes will start the week of September 29. Information on adult evening classes and driver training instruction can be secured by calling the high school office.

Bits o' Business

Investors in the United States have spent an average $11,000 in plant, equipment and tools for every worker in manufacturing, the national industrial conference board reports . . . Manufacturers' sales dropped from $22.4 billion in May to $21.8 billion in June. Inventories went down from $42.7 billion to $42.2 billion. Unfilled orders, however, jumped from $11.1 billion to $11.6 billion . . . Consumers apparently are convinced that prices won't come down. One out of every three believes this is a good time to buy household goods, compared with one out of four a year ago.

The polio epidemic has put many parents on guard. I've noticed that the children in our neighborhood are no longer permitted to play strenuously all day long. Yet even many of these precautionary measures fail, and this is when a family appreciates insurance for polio. A two year $15 family contract insures each member of the family up to $5,000 for expenses incurred in relation to the disease. With the polio epidemic at its height, there is no better investment. I must admit that I never realized such a thing existed. Call Victor H. Beisler, insurance broker, 501 N. State rd., Arlington Heights, at Cl. 3-7467 for all the particulars.

She has lots of new brass trivets, copper molds and other copper items. Unusual pin-up lamps and cute aprons for the men are also among the newest things at the Bounty Fair.

Fall-Seeded Rye Pasture Proves Good 'Hog Sense'

Up to 100 pounds of grain mixture and 500 pounds of alfalfa hay can be saved by grazing four or five bred sows or gilts on an acre of fall-seed rye pasture.

S. W. Terrill, head of the swine division at the Illinois College of Agriculture, reports that tests made at the Agricultural Experiment station bear this out.

Fall-seeded rye pasture makes a valuable crop for grazing sows and litters in early spring too, at the rate of 12 sows and litters to an acre. In the Illinois tests, the feed saved by each acre of rye pasture over drylot feeding with sows and litters amounted to almost 100 bushels of corn and 560 pounds of supplement.

FEEDING PROGRAMS used on many farms don't provide all the nutrients needed by bred gilts and sows in drylot during late growth, gestation and lactation periods. Turning them on good pasture helps to supply the needed vitamins and other growth-producing factors.

Brood sows should have good pasture during as much of the year as possible, Terrill says — legume or legume-grass pastures in the summer and the rye in fall, winter and early spring.

Without good pasture, brood sows should get liberal amounts of high-quality alfalfa meal or hay. In mixed rations, included 10 to 15 per cent of high-quality alfalfa meal. It's good insurance for strong, healthy litters.

Record Cow

With 486 pounds of butterfat and 12,454 pounds of milk testing 3.9% to her credit, Florem Daisy, a registered Holstein-Friesian cow owned by Ray E. Meyer, Roselle, has completed a 365-day production test in official board improvement registry.

She was milked 2 times daily, and was 2 years 11 months of age when she began her testing period.

Her record averages approximately 16 quarts of milk daily for the period covered by her test.

Testing was supervised by University of Illinois, in cooperation with the Holstein-Friesian association of America.

How To Fight The Deadly Elm Disease

A new leaflet telling how to recognize and combat Dutch elm disease and elm phloem necrosis is now available from the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

J. N. Spaeth, head of the forestry department in the Illinois college of agriculture, says we have a real fight on our hands if we want to save the elms. These diseases are continuing to spread and kill thousands of trees. Most elms, and particularly American elm in the midwest, east and south, are plagued with one or both diseases.

Insects spread both of the diseases. Elm bark beetles carry the Dutch elm fungus from tree to tree, and a leafhopper spreads the virus that causes phloem necrosis. Thus the best way now known to control the diseases is to control the insects, according to Spaeth.

For full information on detecting elm diseases, spraying and other recommendations, write to office of information, U. S. department of agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., and ask for leaflet 329, "Control of Dutch Elm Disease and Elm Phloem Necrosis."

Primitives Liked Color

Primitive peoples had an inborn instinct for color. They used paints and pigments on their bodies, on the walls of their cave-homes, in their houses of worship, in the tombs where they buried their dead and on objects of crude art. Such "art projects" were simply the means of expressing mankind's aspiration toward self-development.

Farmers Can Blow Troubles Out Of Crib If Corn Is Soft This Fall

By IRA MILLER
Farm Electrification Bureau

Corn is a cash crop on many farms, and a "must" crop on others—particularly where it provides the margin of profit in feeder operations. Mother Nature, however, never seems to appreciate this sad state of affairs. At times "she" is downright uncooperative, handing farmers a wet fall and immature corn in the same unhappy package. It has happened in the past, and can happen again. Farmers don't like it, and thousands are doing a good job of "making" their own corn drying weather.

They've had to, because the moisture content of ear corn must be 20% or less, and shelled corn, about 14%, to be stored safely. Corn, with a moisture content up to 25%, usually can be dried out sufficiently in cribs having ventilator flues. Between 25 and 30%, however, forced air drying is necessary to bring the moisture content down to a safe storage point. And, at 30% and over, farmers have to use supplementary heat with their drying equipment, unless they prefer to ensile the crop or let it stand in the fields until it is dry enough to crib.

Ear corn can be dried with unheated air if the outside temperature is near 60 degrees, and provided that the relative humidity is 65% and lower. Fans used should have a volume of 5 to 10 cubic feet per minute for each bushel of corn. Single or double cribs may be used as drying structures. The problem is to obtain a fan of the correct CFM rating, and to see that the air is blown through all of the corn. County agents and power suppliers will help farmers convert present buildings or plan new structures for drying purposes.

It's possible to dry hay outdoors too—here's how one farmer does it.

Shelled corn is dried best in bins which have raised false floors. The false flooring may be a perforated metal or plywood sheet. Also, it may be constructed of 1x2-inch or 1x3-inch slats laid with a ⅛-inch crack between each board. Air is blown into the space between the true and the false floor. An air flow of 1 to 3 cubic feet per minute is required to dry a bushel of shelled corn.

Because of variable conditions in the late fall, corn drying without heat may take several weeks. On the other hand, one of the new crop driers (with supplementary heat) can dry corn—even that with a moisture content as high as 35%—to a safe storage point in a matter of from 3 to 5 days. Costs of operation depend on the weather, and may range from a low of about ½ cent per bushel without heat to approximately 3 cents per bushel with heat.

Efficiency Counts

Farm Earnings Show Great Variations

Why does one farmer make five or ten times as much as another farmer on a single farm?

Carl F. Mees, Cook county farm adviser, says farm bureau farm management service records show that in 1951 some 300-acre farms on good black prairie soil in Illinois made only $2,200 after all operating expenses and value of family labor were deducted. In the same year, some farms of similar size and soil quality made as much as $28,000.

These, of course, were extremes, the most typical spread being $10,000 to $20,000. Interest and income tax payments come out of these earnings, and on rented farms earnings must be divided.

IN LISTING reasons for this vast difference in earnings, Jack Claar, state supervisor of FBFMS fieldman, says it's almost impossible to have a high net income without a high total income. The important things influencing total and net earnings are the kind and amount of crops grown, level of crop yields, amount and kind of livestock and efficiency with which the livestock is handled.

While costs are important too, maintaining large volume of production is more often the problem, Claar says. Costs are dollars at work, and high production requires a lot of dollars at work. Cost items like fertilizers and reasonable amounts of labor and equipment are needed to get a good job done.

TO GET A net earning of $28,000 in 1951, it was necessary to have a total value of farm production of about $50,000. The average grain farm on this same good black prairie soil last year had a total farm production of $24,000. On most of these grain farms, the income levels could be raised by using rotations with as much land in high profit crops as soil conservation practices will permit and by increasing per acre yields. Increasing volume by feeding more livestock is a good idea for smaller farms but will add net income on larger farms only if the livestock is efficiently handled.

The amount of livestock on the FBFMS 300-acre farms varied greatly. Some had none, while others had to buy additional grain for feed. And feeding efficiency varied widely too. Some farmers didn't get the value of feed back, and others had a $2 return for $1 of feed.

CLAAR EMPHASIZES it takes more than just high volume to make high net earnings. Past studies show that some low-earning farms had a large volume, but their feeding efficiency and crop yields were low. This low efficiency means that their costs per unit of production were high. High costs per bushel or per animal leave little net income.

It's important, then, for each operator to study his efficiency carefully in each part of his farm business. Only then can he know what changes to make to increase his income.

Handy Jim's FIXIN'-UP TIPS For Farm and Home

Legless Sorting Table

THE BASEMENT or utility room floor is a back-aching, awkward substitute for a laundry sorting table. Sometimes, though, the floor is the only space because the laundry is too small for a table. One way out of such a dilemma is to build a suspended, legless table which can be pushed out of the way against the wall at a point above the washing machine. Hanging from clothesline ropes, the table is at a convenient height.

Make a framework of 1 by 2-inch lumber to form a rectangle two feet wide and five feet long, with one center brace running the length. Cover it with Masonite 3/16" Tempered Presdwood, attaching with 1¼-inch finishing nails spaced 8 inches apart. A hole should be bored at each corner of the table for the clothesline rope. Rope ends will be knotted underneath. Tops of the ropes are tied into large screw eyes fastened into ceiling joists.

The ropes holding the back of the table should be near a wall. To get the table out of the way, just lift the front edge until the table parallels the wall; then hook each end to a wooden collar at the top of the ropes which suspend the back of the table, and presto-chango your table is suspended.

Screen door hooks attached at the extremes of the front edge are used to fit into the screw eyes on the "collars."

How Much Are Late August Tomato Blossoms Worth?

A frequent question from gardeners at this time of the year is, "What can I expect from late tomato blossoms?"

Lee Somers, vegetable gardening authority in the Illinois college of agriculture, says that tomato blossoms that come after August 20 in Illinois will be likely to produce few if any ripe tomatoes.

During June, July and early August, blossoming and fruit set is a pretty good indication of the crop to come, but this may not be true of late August blossoms.

The reason for failure of the later blossoms is that tomatoes have a fairly definite period of growth and ripening, although this varies a little with variety, weather conditions and soil type.

In general, it takes about 42 to 44 days for tomatoes to reach the firm-ripe stage after blossoming and 46 to 48 days to reach the full red-ripe stage. The average date for the first killing frost in central Illinois is October 18. But tomatoes are a tender crop and are killed by the earliest light or "white" frost. These unpredictable light frosts, which usually hit in spots or localized areas, often come the first week of October. This is so general that most tomato canneries close about October 1.

Rate Pasture Demonstration A Success

The pasture demonstration on the Edmund Rohlwing farm drew a good crowd. Emil Hattendorf and Xaver Schmid, directors of the North Cook county soil conservation district said it was a great success.

The people saw part of the pasture ripped up with a field cultivator and disc while the other part was plowed and disced. While this was going on, the farm planner showed the crowd how to stake out a contour line on an adjoining slope. He explained how the lands are laid out for plowing on the contour. He also pointed out how this will stop erosion by holding the top soil and fertilizer, and allowing the water to be absorbed into the soil. After the ground was disced once, Rock Phosphate was applied according to recommendations from soil tests. It was disced in or worked into the ground with the spring tooth harrow.

FARM ADVISER Mees pointed out the benefit derived by applying a complete fertilizer, such as 10-10-10. This is applied at the rate of about 200 lbs. per acre to insure an even stand and a rapid start.

He also pointed out that a Brillion seeder could reduce the amount of seed needed for a good stand. However, using a cultipacker will also make a firm seed bed which is best for germination.

"Don't seed too deep" was stressed several times.

Edmund Rohlwing remarked that he did not have much pasture since he didn't get over a 6-inch growth and part of the land was bog land.

Scrape Dishes

Scraping dishes eliminates much of the work in actual washing of dishes. Use a scraper, paper toweling or brush. Do this as soon as possible so dishes do not get dried food on them.

For Spittlebug Control Use Fall Spraying

The next two or three weeks is the time for Illinois farmers to deal a timely fall blow to the spittlebug, according to an entomologist in the Illinois natural history survey and the Illinois college of agriculture.

Insect specialist H. B. Petty warns that spittlebug infestations will probably increase again this year. Adults are present in large numbers and will begin to deposit eggs in early September.

ONE APPLICATION of 1½ pounds of actual DDT per acre on new seedings in stubble fields will kill the adults before they lay many eggs, Petty says. Adults are now becoming established in the stubble fields, and little migration from field to field will take place after September 1.

Treatment should be made in late August and early September in those areas where infestation were heavy this spring. After the first week in September, the effectiveness of treatment will decrease steadily, as many adults will have a chance to lay eggs before they are killed.

TREATED CROPS should not be used as hay or pasture for dairy cattle or animals being fattened for slaughter within six weeks of treatment, Petty advises.

Fall treatment for spittlebugs eliminates the possible insecticidal residue problem in the first cutting of hay in the spring, and it comes at a time when a farmer is not quite so busy as in late April and early May.

Offers Wood Preserving Tips for Farms

Wood properly treated with a chemical preservative resists rot several times longer than untreated wood.

C. S. Walters, forest products specialist at the Illinois college of agriculture, says that's an important fact to keep in mind around the home and farm. Using treated wood will save both time and money in the long run when putting in new or replacement windows, screens, porches or other wood units.

ALTHOUGH NOT all preservatives are water repellent, they are all effective in delaying rot because they poison the food supply of the decay fungi. They also repel or kill insects that destroy wood.

Walters says that cold soaking in a suitable preservative for three minutes will give good protection for many years on millwork. Another method, although not quite so effective, is to simply brush the preservative on.

Commercially treated wood is usually the best, and nearly all window sash and many other ready-to-use products are now treated before they go on sale. Whenever treated wood is cut or planed, however, the newly exposed areas should be brush-treated before the wood parts are installed.

IF THE NEW wood is to be painted, be sure to use the paintable kind of preservative, and let it dry thoroughly after application before trying to paint over it.

Annual Turkey Growers' to Meet Sept. 11

Members of the Illinois state turkey growers' association will meet Thursday, September 11, at Paul Law's turkey farm, Mt. Carroll, for their annual fall meeting.

Keith Chidley, Palatine, president of the association, announces that growers will assemble at the Law farm at 10 a. m. CST for a tour of local turkey flocks.

Byron Hutchins, Carroll county farm adviser, will be master of ceremonies for the afternoon program starting at 1 o'clock. Frank G. Wollney, institute of American poultry industries, Chicago, will discuss "What's Ahead in Turkey Marketing?" He will be followed by Dr. J. O. Alberts, University of Illinois college of veterinary medicine, whose subject is "What's New in Diseases and Disease Control."

At 2 p. m. C. D. Jones, Arcady Farms milling company, Chicago, will talk about feeds, and M. C. Small, executive secretary of the national turkey federation, Mt. Morris, will answer the question of what to do with all turkeys. The outlook for the turkey situation will be forecast by Dr. L. A. Wilhelm, assistant head of the poultry department at Purdue.

The meeting is scheduled to adjourn at 3:15 p. m.

Robert D. Beer, manager of the Chicago veterans' administration regional office, advised all veterans to have photostatic or certified copies made of their original discharge or separation papers for use in applying for veterans' benefits.

Veterans with service since June 27, 1950—the start of the Korean conflict — should have these copies made immediately if they plan to attend school under the Korean GI bill this fall.

Floors of Oak, One-Story Construction and Attached Garage Win Vote of Home Buyers

If you prefer a house having oak floors, one-story construction, attached garage, basement, painted interior walls, and separate dining room, then you have plenty of company among today's home owners and prospective home buyers.

Surveys and trade reports reveal that these features are highly popular both among those who now own homes and those who plan to buy.

FLOORS OF OAK are heavily favored for most rooms, principally because of their durability, natural beauty and ease of upkeep. Surveys show that about 85 per cent of homemakers prefer them. Builders and lumber dealers report that in many communities, due to this strong demand, all new houses are being floored with oak. Such homes sell faster, they say.

One poll by a national magazine, besides disclosing the preference for 1-story construction, attached garage and painted interiors, shows that basements are desired by a strong majority except in the south, where basementless construction has long been favored. Even there, however, 40 per cent expressed preference for basements. Virtually all owners who now have basements said they would not wish to be without them.

DESPITE THE trend in recent years toward combination living-dining rooms, more than 40 per cent declared in favor of separate dinings rooms. Again, those who have them would not care to sacrifice them for other advantages. This preference is especially predominant in the south, according to another survey by a governmental agency. Nine out of ten southern families interviewed in that poll voted for separate dining rooms, although only about one-half of those questioned now have them.

Can Convert Silent Films to Sound

A new system for converting millions of feet of existing silent film into sound motion pictures was announced by Bell & Howell company. The new development permits the magnetic recording and playback of sound directly on standard silent film, perforated along both of its edges.

It is no longer necessary to make a copy of the silent movie on a film perforated along only one edge, which has heretofore been required in order to provide sufficient space for the magnetic sound track. It was extremely expensive to convert silent film libraries to sound. It costs about 12½c per foot, or $50, to copy a single 12 minute silent color movie on the special type of film. Now family movie makers, hospitals, doctors, business firms, and owners of entertainment film libraries all with standard silent films can convert directly to sound for only 3½c per film foot.

Pioneer Traveling Combined with Plane Transportation Gives Zest to Unusual Trip by Mr. and Mrs. Benson

Since Mr. and Mrs. Glen Benson, Arlington Heights, recently returned from a pioneer trip to Alaska, they have been plied with a lot of questions about their experiences which included six days motoring over the Alcan and Alaskan highways, which they describe as 2,000 miles of dust and heavy traffic.

A reporter of Paddock Publications was one of those who asked questions. There were so many interruptions on the street corners that he asked a blow-by-blow account of their trip which he received at the Benson home on S. Evergreen Sunday evening.

The story, brief as it is, appears herewith as a time saver for those friends who have not yet caught up with the Bensons. Perhaps some of them will read with relish about the hardships experienced by this man and wife who believed the magazine stories about the Alaska highway.

During the interview Sunday night, there were so many "now this is off the record," that this reporter is only going to recognize a few of them.

Our first inquiry, "would you do it again," was answered by a united "no."

The memory of those six days of gravel roads and clouds of dust that blinded the driver and the sound of those huge construction trucks and equipment on the roads of the interior of Alaska is still too fresh in their minds for them to recommend to friends to "go and do likewise."

THE STORY of those rugged miles was forgotten by the reporter and the travelers as they grew eloquent over their trips by air to the farthermost corners of the Arctic circle. Their one regret is that, due to weather conditions, the flight to Barrow, the northern tip of Alaska, was called off.

Instead they took planes from Fairbanks "the end of the road" to Kotzebue on the Arctic ocean 40 miles north of the Arctic circle, Nome, Juneau and Fort Yukon, also above the Arctic circle the most northern port on that river.

A chartered plane from Krotzebue took them over the tundra, where the government maintains reindeer herds as the meat supply for the Eskimos. Roads are so inadequate that plane travel is universal.

Initiation of travelers who pass the Arctic circle is a little different than given at the equator. Suddenly the pilot called out "fasten your belts." A moment later the ship suddenly zoomed upwards a thousand feet and then downward.

As the startled and frightened passengers asked "what was that," they were told, "we just climbed over the Arctic Circle." The Bensons have engraved certificates attesting to the fact that they have flown over the imaginary line.

ENTERING Canada they had good highways to Edmonton Alberta, the start of the Alcan highway. They found that there were hundreds of other travelers besides themselves who had swallowed whole the beautifully pictured stories of the overland trip to Alaska. The sojourners came in cars, and trailers but the ever present trucks had the right-of-way because they could kick up the greatest amount of dust.

The road might not have been paved, but it was wide and well maintained by the Canadian government. The gas stations, lodges and overnight stop-over places seemed to be owned by people from the states. They were bubbling over with hospitality. The majority of the camps were clean and comfortable, even if they did not have tile bathrooms. They all serve good American food.

After traveling 454 miles they reached the start of the Alaska highway where the road mark read "0." It meant that they had to travel 1524 miles to reach their goal, Fairbanks. A convenient guide book gave details of all accommodations enroute. Through Canada road markers were prominent. However the universal greeting to fellow travelers was "Will this dust ever stop?"

When the Bensons reached the Territory of Alaska it was evident that the construction gangs, road men, etc., were too busy to think much about the traveling public. If there was a hole in the road, which they did not have time to immediately repair, a sapling or perhaps a pile of rocks would "mark the spot."

Road construction and camp buildings orginally erected by the government have been sold to private individuals, who in their hurry to transport the lumber to their own land, paid no attention to the number of nails dropped upon the roadway.

AFTER SIX DAYS, the Bensons, who had been joined at Edmonton by Dr. and Mrs. R. A. Button, of Tacoma, reached the dead-end of the highway, Fairbanks.

It was then that Mr. Benson discovered that the Arlington line of school furniture had already been introduced into the frozen north.

"It was like suddenly meeting a man from home," says Glen, "when I looked through the window of a school house and saw our product already in use."

Glen, right there and then determined to do his best to have an Arlington Seating Co. school desk for every American, Indian and Eskimo of school age in Alaska. He found the school officials most happy to meet the man who was a part of the company which manufactured the desks that their pupils were using.

Many of them were fraternal brothers. He also had the privilege of attending Lions club meetings in Fairbanks, Anchorage and Juneau.

Glen is looking forward to a lot of future orders from that area. As he says, Supt. Clabaugh may think he has troubles finding housing for the coming Arlington Heights generation, but it is nothing compared to the conditions in Alaska. Frequent births and large families seem to be the rule. The intermingling of Eskimo lassies with the soldiers also tends to population increase.

THE ESKIMOS have been introduced to modern living in many ways.

A 25 h.p. Johnson motor propels many of their boats. They spend the summer in a tent colony and return to their natural habitat for the long winter.

They are proteges of the government, which maintains huge herds of reindeer for their meat. The wild caribou diminish many of the herds.

Glen brought back home more gold than he took with him. It is in a small pill bottle and represents a half hour of gold panning that Glen performed at an open gold mine at Nome. Value 75 cents to a dollar.

The mayor of Nome meets all planes, extending a welcoming hand and a three hour bus trip to the old gold diggin's.

UNCLE SAM is not only the big land owner in Alaska, but he controls the communication system. Although Glen is a citizen of the United States he charged his guests from Arlington $26,50 to talk to the folks back home.

In Juneau, the capital of the territory, the Benson's were amazed at the number of automobiles for there are no roads leading into Juneau and only 3 roads radiating out from it. These are four, six and forty miles longs respectively.

Of course the visiting official from Arlington Seating Co. paid an official call upon the Alaska commissioner of education and other dignitaries of the territory.

Anchorage is the boom city of Alaska. It is growing so fast that its inhabitants have no time to argue about zoning, shopping centers or parking meters. Work has started on a 34 room high school to cost nearly three million dollars.

Mr. Benson told of the mammoth defenses that Uncle Sam is maintaining in Alaska but suggested that in the interest of national security the Russians should not be told about it through the columns of Paddock Publications. A careful check of our mailing list shows that there are no known commies reading the Herald but this reporter will only say that radar and aircraft guns are everywhere ready to knock out any bomber trying to surprise Chicago or points east, south or west.

A pilot who has not filed with authorities his flight is quickly reminded of his negligence by the presence of an army jet flying over and around him, keeping his plane in constant surveillance.

The Benson party missed the big fire which destroyed the large Pioneer hotel at Fairbanks. They had flown to Nome, Kotzebue and Galena.

THE GOVERNMENT is trying its best not to spoil the coming generation of Eskimos. Tourists are warned to give them no money. Bubble gum is particularly enjoyed by the youngsters and there was a plentiful supply available for the tourists.

The highest price paid for gas in Alaska was 46 cents a gallon; the lowest 30 cents.

Station attendants do not even wipe off windshilds unless specially requested.

School teachers are paid high salaries. Superintendents receive up to $13,000; regular elementary teachers nearly $5,000.

Indians enjoy certain fishing privileges not allowed a white unless he marries an Indian. Fish wheels are used by them in place of sport fishing.

Restaurants in Nome charge 50 cents for each egg served. Milk is 50 cents a quart. Sunday newspapers from Seattle bring 45 and 50 cents. Local papers 10 cents.

The government vegetable project in the famed Matanuska valley is still there, but only three of the original families. Alaskans seem to prefer potatoes grown in the U. S.

In order to visit Mt. McKinley National Park, the Bensens shipped their car to the park by rail which enabled them to drive sixty miles through the park to Camp Eielson to view Mt. McKinley, the highest peak in North America.

THE VISITORS from Arlington tried salmon fishing on Kenas river which flows through the peninsula by that name. Even if he had a good alibi that the distance made shipment home impossibly. Glen admits that he caught no salmon, but got a few rainbow and Dolly Varden trout.

The maritime strike was settled just in time for the visitors to board the SS Alaska for home, arriving in Seattle August 18. They did no joy riding on the trip home. They were hungry for the sight of Arlington Heights.

They kept in touch with the home town by the weekly receipt of the Arlington Heights Herald, forwarded to them by air mail. They read about the Mexican stabbing and other front page events within two days after the newspaper publication date.

The Extinction Of a Species

THE PASSENGER PIGEON

No more shall the sky be darkened for hours or even days by vast hordes of innumerable thousands of passenger pigeons. No more shall their beautiful wooing calls echo through the forests, sounding in the distance "like an army of horses with sleighbells on." No more shall trees be broken down by the sheer weight of pigeons in roosing places that defied description. No more shall more than 100 nests be found in a single tree in breeding season.

It is true that the pigeon often destroyed great quantities of crops, but it is also true that it repaid for its damage many times over by the food that it provided and harmful insects that it consumed.

This is a story of figures that are almost unbelievable. Remember, as you read this story, that these figures are quoted from famous naturalists that saw the birds themselves.

The passenger pigeon was 17 inches in length, grayish-blue above and reddish-fawn below. The tail was very long and graduated for more than half of its length. The tail feathers narrowed and were obtusely pointed.

The story of the passenger pigeon is one of the most startling and shameful examples of foolishness, greed, and mismanagement (or no management at all), that has been directed at the human race since the colosseum.

IN 1605 OFF the coast of Maine, Champlain saw an "infinite number of pigeons" on some island. In 1610 to 1613, the Jesuit Fathers tell of birds fully as abundant as the fish, and that in their seasons, the pigeons overloaded the trees. The Plymouth colony was threatened with famine in 1643 because of great flocks that beat down and ate "a very great quantity of all sorts of English grain." But in 1648 they came again after the harvest and provided food. Winthrop said that "it was incredible what multitudes of them were killed daily."

Alexander Wilson tells of a breeding place in 1806 near Shelbyville, Ky., which was said to be 40 miles in length and was several miles in width. More than one hundred nests were found in a single tree. The ground was covered with broken tree limbs, herds of hogs were fattening upon eggs and squabs that also littered the ground after falling from above. For three and one-half hours, the torrent of birds flew overhead ceaselessly in a flock 240 miles long and far more than a mile in width. It was conservatively estimated that the flock contained over two billion pigeons.

The last passenger pigeon on earth died in the Cincinnati zoological park in 1914.

The principal reason for the extermination of the pigeons was the greedy and merciless market killing which enabled the New York markets to sell one hundred barrels every day. Every known means was used to kill the birds.

THE GREATEST harm was done when the young were killed, for then there were none to replace their elders. It was neither possible nor necessary to kill all of the birds. All that was required to exterminate them was to kill off a large part of the young birds that hatched each year. Nature cut off the rest.

Again I quote from "Birds of America." No adequate attempt to protect them was made until they practically disappeared. Whenever a law looking toward the conservation of these birds was proposed in any state, its opponents argued before legislative committees that the pigeons needed no protection." We did our best to exterminate old and young, and we succeeded. The explanation is so simple that all talk of "mystery" seems sadly out of place.

The mourning dove is closely related to the passenger pigeon and in many states is protected. How about some protection here in Illinois where the doves (with the sanction of the conservation dept.) are killed by the hundreds?

I wish to thank the person for the instructive pamphlet on the preservation of hawks. I would like to become acquainted with this person.

Please send me your address fellow hawk lover.

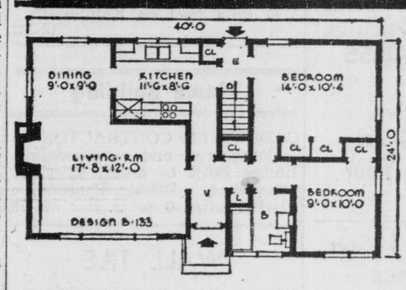
New Ideas In Homes



THE BRIGHTON has a long but narrow floor plan that gives the house a larger appearance than actually exists. There are two bedrooms, bath, kitchen and combination living-dining room, with full basement. There is excellent circulation between rooms, all can be reached from the front hall without passing through any other room. Kitchen cabinets are on opposite walls with refrigerator and sink on outside wall and sink under windows. Living-dining room is L-shaped with cross-light. Living room has large picture window unit in front and fireplace on end wall.

Bedrooms have wardrobe type closets. Entrances have coat closets and linen closet.

Exterior has asphalt shingle room and wide siding wall finish with a recessed entrance. Dimensions are 40 feet by 24. Area is 915 square feet, cubage 17,842.

For further information about THE BRIGHTON, write the Small House Planning Bureau, St. Cloud, Minn.

So What!

In answer to your article in the Palatine Enterprise about a fracas along N. W. highway recently, I must chide the editor for using front page news space for an item that belongs on the sport page or in the drama section.

Although I have not closed any deals as yet I have divided the property into 11 homesites and have signed 11 wills, and my lawyer knows what to do with them. This converts enemies into guardians so that covers No. 1 of the article.

The Enterprise was slightly misinformed in regard to zoning. I sought the village board's opinion in regard to zoning the part bordering the swamp for a small factory, the balance to remain as is. I was told that this would be "spot zoning" which is taboo. "Zoning spots" may be a little different. The neighbors also had a clam-bake and appeared in opposition. Imagine spoiling the view of the bullrushes with a nasty old factory. I have since received an opinion from the Cook County Board rejecting use of the premises for farm livestock, although it is zoned as farm land; also 20 rejections for schemes which would include altering and modernizing the large structure on my premises.

There is a lot of controversy among owners in the vicinity as to my future intentions regarding this property, although they can always hold another clambake. The premises are scrutinized every morning to see if there are any strange faces around. Perhaps this will assist them.. If you see a man with a fur hat paddling around the swamp, I have sold to an Eskimo. If a fellow is riveting on shutters, a Russian Communist has purchased. Smoke coming from a tepee indicates an American is the owner. In the event a hand laundry is being erected, undoubtedly a Chinaman. I once was concerned about what the owner was doing with this property, so I bought it.

Thos. A. Dipper.

Fine Welcome

We have recently moved to the fine community of Palatine and after living in Chicago for many years, it is certainly a wonderful place to move to. The next day after our arrival we were greeted by Mrs. Treat, who represented the various merchants in Palatine, and welcomed us as hostess of the Welcome Wagon. May I take this opportunity to thank Mrs. Treat and the merchants for their friendliness and courtesy cards to us in making us feel welcome. I believe this is a very fine gesture of this community.

JUST AROUND THE CORNER

from PATTY McARDLE

Dear Peg:

Isn't it fun to "take a day off" once in a while—especially if it is preceded by a more-than-usual-amount-of-work day? Although we housewives and mothers don't often have the opportunity to do this, I think it's a wonderful morale booster to get up early on a bright, summer morning, do nothing more than make the beds and wash the breakfast dishes, then dress the children, gather them into the car and head for the open country to visit some place you haven't been before, or are particularly fond of.

I few days ago Megan, Bridget and I did just that. I hadn't seen Helen for quit a while, so I called to see if she, Billy and Timmy would join us. I guessed right—she too was delighted to "get away" for the day and knew Billy and Timmy would enjoy a change of scenery. So, after picking them up, we took the route to Long Grove. I had heard of an unusual antique shop and country store there and was anxious to see them.

IT WAS SUCH a pleasant drive through the warm, sunny countryside. The fields of gold and green glowed in the sun and tiny, sky-blue flowers, along the edge of the highway, nodded daintily in the summer breeze.

It was not long before we reached the little community of Long Grove and immediately saw the "Crossroad Exchange" and across the street, the "Farmside" country store. What a fascinating place the "Exchange" is. Because all the things to be found there are brought in by people to be sold on consignment, one can find almost anything from handsomely carved antique silver, both flat and hollow ware, to jewelry new and old, to second hand drapes, chairs and tables. We saw also beautiful Bavarian china and a most attractive collection of fragile, antique demitasse cups and saucers (the tiny white cup lined with gold lustre was such a sweet one)! A well designed marble top table caught my attention and if ever I need a picture or mirror frame, I shall certainly come to the "Exchange" and look through the room upstairs which was filled with asssorted shapes and sizes. But, Megan discovered the antique we both would have loved most to take home with us—a canopy doll bed. The white, lace coverlet and drape, which looked as old as the bed itself, added that frilly, "little-girl" touch to the piece. Before we left the "Exchange" Helen treated us to refreshments in the luncheon and tea room, so attractively decorated with antiques, ladder back chairs and checkered table cloths.

WE STOPPED for a few minutes in the country grocery and gift store and enjoyed some penny candy (an almost extinct item!) from those lovely old, square, glass candy jars and a cracker from a bowl placed on top of an authentic, old cracker barrel. Helen and I agreed that in the gift section the bold plaid, linen table cloth and napkins was an outstanding buy and would be a gay touch to any informal or picnic table.

Following our leisurely ride home, we stopped at Helen's for a late lunch and a pleasant afternoon of visiting. Although I had dinner-making to face when we arrived home I didn't mind at all, since the pleasure and the companionship of the day left me in high spirits—I believe that alone made it a worthwhile day, don't you agree?

My love,
Patty.

THE MAILMAN'S CORNER

BY LELAND ELLIS TRUXELL

Much has been written, and many speeches made about the development of man from the stone age to modern times. The age of man is variously estimated by scientists at somewhere between 6,000 and 400,000,000 years. Assuming man has existed for only 6,000 years, which seems unlikely, what has he done in that time?

We boast about our fine homes, but they are still made of clay, stone and wood as primitive ones were, and are still heated by fire; with birds for patterns. it has taken man 6,000 years to learn to fly; with fish as models, it took almost as long to develop the submarine.

But even though we agree that a portion of the earth's people have done wonders after 6,000 years of study of natural resources and phenomena which surrounded them since the dawn of man, let us take a look at what mankind otherwise has done.

More than three fourths of the world's inhabitants are illiterate. Millions in India, Africa, Asia and South America live but little above the stone age. Their industry and agricultural methods have remained practically unchanged for thousands of years. Superstition, witchcraft and barbaric social and political systems exist today in most of the world. Professing Christians are a handful in proportion to unbelievers, pagan worshippers, and idolators, 2,000 years since Christ who provided a solution for all our troubles in the New Testament.

Much of our natural resources has been wasted in improved methods of racial suicide, in wars becoming ever more cruel, needless and devastating. Only in the last 100 years has any great advance been made in enlightened nations in the study of the mind, the source of ideas and a foundation of hope for our present and future.

Now, at last, we are taking what is mankind's greatest step. Atomic energy can be used for heating and as a source of power for everything from sewing machines to great factories. Some day it may be used to power space ships.

The question of whether it will be used beneficially depends first upon whether its use in war destroys mankind; second, whether big business can find a way to market it at a profit; and third, whether labor unions will permit its use because of the manpower it will displace.

HINTS FOR HOMEMAKERS

IT'S ALL A MATTER OF GOOD PLANNING

by the General Electric Consumers Institute

How often do you use your electric mixer, your waffle iron, your sandwich grill?

Probably not as much as you should—or as much as you'd like to. And in many cases, it's because they are not there when you want them, says the General Electric Consumers Institute. That's the fault of bad planning.

Your electric mixer can save you time and can guarantee you fluffier cakes, better frostings and creamier mashed potatoes—but you won't use it for any of these chores if it's dismantled and stored away in a back corner of the pantry. It should be kept on the kitchen counter top, ready for use, with the clean beaters resting in the bowls—and a plastic cover protecting it from dust.

Sandwich Grill Is Versatile

The same goes for the sandwich grill, which should be stored in full view of the homemaker, reminding her of its versatility in making grilled sandwiches and cook-at-the-table breakfasts or midnight snacks.

When you're planning your new kitchen, remember to allow space for the counter-top storage of these small appliances (that includes the toaster, too, of course). They are all designed to fit easily in the 18-inch space between wall and base cabinets on your work area—and they'll be right there when you need their help.

Many Lawns Can Use Fall Face Lifting

Ridding your lawn of weeds now will give you a chance to reseed bare spots this fall. This will help put the turf into good shape for the winter and for an early start next spring, especially if you include some fertilizer in the renovation program.

H. R. Kemmerer, landscape gardener in the Illinois college of agriculture, says that a good dense crop of spring grass will help to solve lawn weed problems next season. He offers these suggestions: Start the fall lawn program with two or three applications of crabgrass killer at 10-day intervals, if this weed is present. About a week later, apply 2-4-D to kill plantain and other broadleafed weeds. Make sure none of the spray gets onto tree and shrub foliage.

After the dead weeds have been raked out, you are ready for the fertilizer and new grass seed. As fertilizer use 10-6-4 or similar analysis. Raking it into the soil at the rate of 10 pounds per 1,000 square feet should provide a good supply of plant food.

Lessons In English

Words Often Misused

The expression "inclement weather" is a trite, or hackneyed phrase. It is better to be explicit, and say, "cold, rainy, severe, or unfavorable weather."

Do not use "with," when you mean "of," as in the sentence, "With Massachusetts, as with Virginia, the earliest settlers were English." Instead say, "Of Massachusetts, as of Virginia, the earliest settlers were English."

"Inasmuch" is usually written as one word. It is followed by "as," but this second "as" is not joined to it.

Do not say, "He was scared of the results of such action." Say, "He feared the results."

Do not say, "A crowd of people were there." "Crowd" means a great number of persons. Simply say, "A crowd was there."

Do not say, "He claims that he was there." Say, "He says (or, declares) that he was there."

Words Often Mispronounced

Tourniquet. Pronounce toorni-ket, oo as in poor, and not as tore, accent first syllable.

Explicable. Accent first syllable, not the second, often heard.

Dilemma. Pronounce the i as in did, e as in men, accent second syllable.

Nuance (subtle variation). Pronounce nu-ans, u as in use, a as in ah, accent first syllable.

Proviso. Pronounce pro-vi-zo, both o's as in no, i as in vine, accent second syllable.

Rarefied. Pronounce rare-e-fied, in three syllables, and not rare-fied.

Words Often Misspelled

Immaterial (two m's); imaginative (one m). Access (admittance); excess (superfluity). Tyrannically; observe the two n's and the two l's. Commentary; observe the two m's and the ary. Salable is preferred to saleable. Temperament; observe the a.

Word Study

"Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day. Words for this lesson:

Lenitive; having the quality of softening or mitigating. "Time is one of the most effectual lenitives in suffering."

Graphic; clearly and vividly described. "He gave a graphic account of his adventures."

Incessant; continuing without interruption; unceasing. "The farmers could not work because of incessant rains."

Predominant; having ascendancy over others; superior. "We shall strive for predominant excellence."

Generic; as a genus; designating a group type; general. (Accent second syllable). "The generic term used by the speaker was unfamiliar to most of us."

Protract; to draw out or lengthen in time. "Why should he protract the argument?"

Modern Etiquette

Q. What should be the sequence of pages in a letter written on the folded-sheet type of stationery?

A. Why not write in the proper order of pages? I prefer letters that go from the first sheet to the left inside page, then to the right inside page, and then on to the back page. This eliminates any confusion on the part of your reader.

Q. Is it always correct to use two envelopes for enclosing wedding invitations?

A. This is the generally accepted form. The inner envelope contains the invitation and cards, and is addressed to Mr. and Mrs. John H. Smith, without the address.

Q. Is it proper always to thank one's hostess for a meal in her home?

A. One does not thank a hostess for "having fed one." Instead, be sure to tell your hostess how much you have enjoyed your visit.

Q. How long is it correct for a hostess to wait for a tardy dinner guest?

A. Fifteen or 20 minutes. It is said nothing short of illness in the family excuses one for being late for a dinner engagement. At any rate, the tardy guest's excuse to his hostess should be a very good one.

Q. Is it proper for a man to step out of an elevator before the woman who is with him, if she happens to be standing behind him?

A. Yes; it will save time and avoid confusion.

Q. Should wedding announcements be mailed to the persons who have received invitations to the wedding?

A. No; announcements are sent only to those persons who did not receive invitations to the wedding.

Q. How close to the dinner or banquet table should one sit?

A. The best thing I can suggest is for you to sit close enough so that you can reach your plate without leaning forward awkwardly, and far enough away so that the elbows will not be cramped.

Q. When addressing an envelope to an unmarried girl or woman, is it all right to address it merely "Mary Williams?"

A. No. Always use the prefix "Miss" no matter how young she is.

Q. When attending church services that are not familiar, should one copy the movements of the members of the congregation, or just remain seated?

A. It is better to try to do what the others are doing. You will be less conspicuous.

Jewel Sales Up

Jewel Tea sales for the four weeks ended August 9, 1952, were $15,955,847, an increase of 5.9% or $886,264 over the same weeks of 1951.

Residents Protest Loudly Against New Hines Lumber Yard

A loud, unified and sometimes vehement protest by more than 200 residents of the Cumberland Terrace-Cumberland area left no doubt whatsoever how they felt about a request to rezone a five acre tract at the northwest corner of Golf and Wolf rds. for use as a retail lumber store and yard.

The group was on hand for the public hearing on the matter by zoning board of appeals. Herman Seegers and his wife, owners of the vacant tract, requested the rezoning so they could sell the property to Edward Hines lumber company.

The petition sought rezoning from residential to light industrial or a new classification, "heavy commercial."

Only voices favoring rezoning were those of Richard Moon, attorney for Hines, and H. M. Cornell, local realtor-builder and developer of the Cumberland area.

As on previous occasions, Moon stated that the Hines company would like to build a ranch-type store 80x40 ft. and a storage building approximately 150x225 ft. He estimated cost of the buildings and fence around the property at close to $200,000.

Such objections as to traffic, type of part-time employees, unsightliness, and the possibility of what the site might later develop into under another classification were raised repeatedly and irately.

Back in 350 B.C., the famed Greek physician Hippocrates, "Father of Medicine," used a leather boot in the treatment of club-foot.

Bad, Not Better Business

'Bride of the Month' Now To Be 'Sucker of the Month'

Not every person can wear contact lenses. For this reason, it is important that an individual requiring a correction for vision should be carefully evaluated, particularly when a contact lens is desired rather than glasses or spectacles.

There are many persons whose vision can be corrected very nicely with spectacle glasses and who look well wearing them. However, if their occupation is such that spectacle glasses are prohibited, such as persons in the theatrical world, people in contact sports, such as football, basketball and hockey, the professional swimmer and others.

THERE ARE also certain medical conditions of the eyes which cause visual disturbances that are not adequately improved by spectacle glasses, but are corrected nicely with contact lenses. And then, of course, there are the patients who wear them purely for cosmetic reasons.

One type of contact lens has a portion that fits over the central or corneal part of the eye, and a second part that fits over the scleral or white part of the eye. In other words, this type is in contact with two parts of the eye.

Another type is known as the corneal cap and is fitted to the size of the cornea of the eye only, making it come in contact with only one part of the eye.

IN BOTH TYPES the prescription for each individual case is ground on the central portion of the lenses which corrects the patient's refractive error, whether it be farsightedness, nearsightedness, astigmatism or any combination of these.

With the contact lens which fits over two portions of the eye, that is the corneal and scleral parts, an accessory fluid is used which rests between the contact lens and the cornea of the eye. This thin layer of fluid permits the uninterrupted transmission of light rays from the contact lens to the cornea of the eye. It sometimes takes the patient considerable time to become adjusted to the fluid, since the eye becomes irritated after an elapse of several hours, and then, too, it frequently causes the vision to become cloudy.

On the other hand, with the corneal cap, no fluid is necessary, and the cap just fits over the cornea of the eye, not too tight and not too loose. The thin layer of tears normally present over the eye forms a thin layer between the corneal cap lens and the cornea of the eye. The lens then holds its position in part by the suction, or what is technically called capillary attraction.

The students will meet university officials, heads of their colleges and departments, and their instructors, and will be welcomed into the UW family and to their State University campus.

During the week they'll attend various convocations, tour the Memorial Union, go to house parties and church center open houses and an "activities exposition," an evening in the memorial union theater devoted to showing the students all the ways they can participate in campus extra-curricular life.
